

U. S. INSISTS UPON COMPLETE RECALL OF DUMBA

RUSSIAN ARMY MAKES MORE GAINS IN VILNA REGION, REPORT

MAKES THREE VICTORIES, IS LONDON ASSERTION

London, Sept. 25.—The position of the Russians from Vilna to the Galician frontier appears to have been improved greatly, three distinct victories having been recorded almost simultaneously on the eastern front. This achievement has mitigated to some extent the uneasiness felt in England as to the attitude of Bulgaria.

In the far north the situation is less favorable for the Russians. They are resisting Field Marshal Von Hindenburg's men with characteristic stubbornness, but the admission that the fighting is proceeding at Smolensk, three miles from Novo-Alexandrovsk, indicates that the approaches to the latter town are in the hands of the Germans, and that the fate of Dvinsk is in doubt.

East of Vilna, north of Pinsk, and in the vicinity of Lutsk the Russians have scored heavily. The Germans characterized their reverses east of Vilna, that is at the Vileika railway junction, as of a temporary character, notwithstanding their loss of guns and prisoners. Near Pinsk, Field Marshal Von Mackensen was thrown back in an engagement that has shaken his grip on the city.

Further south, the Russians now holding Lutsk are pressing their advantage and seem to be assuming the dominance on the southern end of the line in a manner recalling the fighting of last spring.

Athens states that the mobilization is proceeding today and that thousands of men are already in uniform. It is predicted that within a few days a majority of the reservists will have joined the colors.

RACERS TO TRY FOR ASTOR CUP

New York, Sept. 25.—The elimination races, preliminary to the 350-mile automobile race for the Astor cup on October 2, begin at the Speedway today. Thirty machines will continue for three days. Thirty machines were entered for the cup race, and among the drivers who will face the starter at the track today are many of the best known racing men of the country. The requirement was that they should make a two-mile time trial at the rate of at least 85 miles an hour.

Ohio Dairy Officials Given Two Year Terms For Defrauding Government

TOLEDOANS INDICTED IN BIG JURY FRAUD

Toledo, Sept. 25.—Five indictments charging Charles Kelly, clerk of the Lucas court, with embezzlement, fraud, forgery and jury tampering, were returned this afternoon by a special Lucas county grand jury.

Sypherd P. J. Peterson, who was Kelly's chief deputy until he was discharged by Kelly a week ago, was jointly indicted with Kelly in the counts charging jury tampering.

Kelly is indicted individually for conversion, it is alleged, of $5,000 from the county funds to his own uses. For fraud in paying for personal printing amounting to $20 out of county funds, and for forging the name of Attorney R. K. Kirkley as endorsee of a check.

Kelly and Peterson are indicted jointly for tampering, it is alleged, with the jury wheel. The fraud charge against Kelly is that he caused $4 worth of campaign placards for Kelly, to be paid for out of county funds.

Judge Curtis T. Johnson has charged the jury specially drawn, to go to the bottom of the alleged opening of the jury wheel and abstraction of names which it was charged, were to be substituted for names which should have been drawn from the wheel.

Columbus, Sept. 25.—Dennis Kelly, Columbus capitalist, and his business associates, who last June were convicted of defrauding the government of more than $1,000,000 in revenue tax on artificially colored oleomargarine, were sentenced to serve two years each in the penitentiary at Moundsville, W. Va., and fined $1,000 each by Federal District Judge Sater here today.

Kelly's associates were W. H. Eberst, general manager of the old Capital City Dairy company, M. Leo Curbett, of Columbus, secretary of the company, and W. H. Kelly, the company's Pittsburgh agent. Judge Sater overruled a motion for a new trial. Notice of appeal was immediately filed by attorneys for the four defendants and a stay of execution until December 16 was allowed.

The internal revenue department has already received about $575,000 through a civil suit against the old Capital City Dairy company. Of this sum $275,000 was obtained from the confiscation and sale of the company's plant here and the payment of $300,000 by the Kelly interests in a partial settlement of the civil action which they were joint defendants. According to the terms of the settlement another $100,000 must be paid by them within six months. Negotiations are under way for a settlement with the Henry C. Birring estate which held half interest in the company.

RESUME ARGUMENTS ON ARABIC SOON

Washington, Sept. 25.—Negotiations between Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, and the state department over the sinking of the White Star liner Arabic probably will be resumed next week. The German ambassador is said to have received several messages from his foreign office giving its opinion of the evidence submitted by the United States to show the ship was torpedoed without warning and did not move to attack the undersea boat.

It is not known definitely whether Germany is prepared to disavow the sinking of the Arabic with the loss of American lives or intends to suggest the submission of differences on questions of fact to The Hague.

Ambassador Bernstorff's latest advice, it is said, are in accord with intimations in press dispatches from Berlin of a desire to settle amicably the entire dispute between the United States and Germany, but the chief obstacle in the way of a settlement according to the German ambassador, is the alleged policy of Great Britain with respect to ramming submarines.

WILSON IS WILLING TO ADJUST TARIFFS

Washington, Sept. 25.—President Wilson believes the full powers of a tariff commission already are lodged in existing organs of the government, but if anything is lacking to give such powers efficiency, he is in favor of doing it. The president made this clear in a letter to former Governor James M. Cox, made public today at the White House, in reply to a letter in which the former governor advocated the establishing of a tariff commission.

CHANGES ARE MADE IN GERMANY'S NAVY

Berlin, Sept. 25. (By Courier to the Frontier and London, 5:05 a. m.)—Admiral von Holtzendorff, former commander of the German high seas fleet, now is head of the naval general staff succeeding Vice Admiral Bachmann. Rear Admiral Behneke, vice chief of the naval general staff also is out and it is understood his successor will be Admiral von Koch, inspector of marine instruction at the naval academy, although this appointment is unconfirmed. The changes which were made some time ago, took place in connection with the modification in the submarine policy signified by Ambassador von Bernstorff's declarations at Washington. He has, the Associated Press correspondent has good reason to believe, firmly committed the line of the submarine policy in regard to American steamers and is thoroughly convinced no more of them will be sunk.

There have been no developments in the submarine question from the German side since the despatch to Ambassador von Bernstorff of the instructions under which he now is conducting negotiations at Washington.

Should it be established, contrary to the unanimous opinion of German submarine officers, that the Arabic was acting innocently, Germany probably will not hesitate to admit that such was the case with the necessary consequences. Germany probably will offer to submit the question of reparation for American lives lost on the Lusitania as well as on the Arabic to The Hague for adjustment.

MEXICAN SITUATION BECOMING CRITICAL

Brownsville, Texas, Sept. 25.—Another critical turn in the turbulent relations of Americans and Mexicans on the lower Texas border was evident today as the result of yesterday's raid by Mexicans on the village of Progresso and the casualties sustained by an American army detachment which finally routed the invaders. All of the Mexicans, probably 50 in number, were said today to have escaped safely into Mexico but strong army patrols occupied every foot of the Rio Grande bank to prevent repetition of the raid.

The escape of the Mexican raiders across the Rio Grande was regarded as one of the gravest features of yesterday's battle. Whether they were connected with the Carranza forces which holds the various towns opposite Progresso and Brownsville could not be learned.

Captain A. V. P. Anderson, the twelfth cavalry, and Private Cecil W. Kennedy, of Central Lake, Mich., who were wounded yesterday were reported today to be in no danger. The body of Private Henry W. Stubblefield, Big Stone Gap, Va., who was killed by the Mexicans, is being held for relatives.

The exact number of Mexicans killed in yesterday's battle was not made known in further reports today. Two men met death on the Texas side of the river and from four to eight others were reported to have been shot to death either while crossing the river in boats or while scrambling up the bank on the other side.

FIVE HURT WHEN AUTO RUNS AWAY

Millersburg, O., Sept. 25.—John Lewis, David Caste, Ed Keffler, Mose Roof and Ike Burst, all of Orville, were injured here early this morning when an automobile in which they were riding became unmanageable on a hill south of this place, struck a house occupied by Mrs. Samuel Maxwell, moved the building partly off its foundations and razed the chimney. One man was hurled through the windshield. The machine was wrecked and the house badly damaged.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 25.—Colonel J. J. Obregon, brother of General Alvaro Obregon, received telegraphic announcement today from General Carranza of his promotion to the rank of brigadier general in recognition of his services as military commander at Mazatlan. During a two weeks' stay here Obregon's agents have purchased munitions to the extent of $50,000.

LOAN COMMISSION TAKES HALF HOLIDAY

New York, Sept. 25.—Members of the Anglo-French financial commission, who are bargaining for the best terms on which they may establish a half billion dollar credit here for Great Britain and France, decided to take the half holiday today after a brief session, and prepared to leave the city over Sunday.

Before the next half holiday rolls around, it was the general expectation of bankers today, an agreement will have been reached over the details of the proposed loan. Tentative proposals at present fix the maximum at $500,000,000, with the possibility that the sum may be lower. The interest rate, fixed at 5 percent, will be in reality greater, it was said, inasmuch as the notes would be sold slightly below par.

BULGARIANS DECLINE TO OBEY CALL

London, Sept. 25. (3 p. m.)—Reuters' correspondent in Moscow says that Bulgarian colonists in that city have declined to obey the call to the colors. SHOOTS INTO CROWD, SEVEN ARE INJURED

Akron, Ohio, Sept. 25.—Seven were injured, none fatally, early today when Paul Harkins, 20, fired two shots from a shot gun into a crowd of men and women that were trying to hold him until the police arrived following a street brawl. One man John W. Justice, 55, is in the city hospital. The others were taken to their homes. The injured:

John Justice, 55, 1248 Fifth avenue, skull penetrated by shot, shot in the face, neck, shoulders, arms and breast. Will lose sight of one eye. Dangerously injured.

Howard Alexander, 20, 1234 Fourth avenue, back wrenched by Stone, seriously bruised.

Charles Root, 25, 1215 Fourth avenue, shot through the neck.

Alexander Jefferson, 20, shot through neck.

Allen Ritten, shot through the ear, neck and shoulders.

Charles Adams, 36, 1204 Fourth avenue, injured on head.

Willia Harig, 18, 1243 Fourth avenue, slightly injured on the head.

Harkins and his companion, Harry Douglas, 21, were arrested by a squad of police who pursued the two men to their homes. Harkins hid in the cellar where he was found by policemen. His father, police say, resisted them when they entered the house.

Harkins was charged with shooting to kill; and Douglas with carrying concealed weapons.

SENDS WORD THAT LEAVE WILL NOT SATISFY

Washington, Sept. 25.—Ambassador Penfield at Vienna has been instructed to make clear to the Austrian government, informally that the United States must insist upon the recall of Dr. Dumba, the Austrian ambassador here and that his departure "on leave of absence" would not be satisfactory.

From messages exchanged between Ambassador Penfield and the state department it is apparent that the Austrian government misunderstood the desires of the United States. It was intimated at first to Ambassador Penfield that the Austrian government might recall Dr. Dumba on leave of absence and might desire safe conduct for him. Dr. Dumba himself telegraphed for such safe conduct a few days later, informing the state department that he had been granted leave of absence.

No action was taken on his request but it was forwarded to Ambassador Penfield. Instructions sent to Mr. Penfield were not disclosed but he has been authorized to make it clear that Mr. Dumba's usefulness as the Austrian ambassador to the United States is ended and that if given merely "leave of absence" he would nevertheless still remain accredited.

The right of a government to demand the recall of an ambassador because of his personal acts is unquestioned under international law and according to officials of the Austrian government persisted in refusing to recall Dr. Dumba passports could be handed to him. There is no indication as yet this will be necessary, the delay in the Austrian government's decision it is said, being due to difficulties in cable transmission.

It was stated officially today that all the messages from the state department to the American embassy at Vienna had reached there.

FREIGHTER IS SUNK

London, Sept. 25.—(10:27 a. m.)—The Holland-American freighter Eemdjik, 4,815 tons gross has been sunk. A dispatch from Norwich says her crew has been landed by the Swedish steamer Framnaes. The Eemdjik sailed from Buenos Ayres, August 29 for Copenhagen with a cargo of 8,000 tons of maize.

Pests I Have Met---By Van.

No. 34--The Imitator

AS MR. STERRETT SHOULD SAY "TH' POOR FISH THINKS HE'S ANOTHER CHARUECHAPIN"

The penalty of being famous or even successful in any branch of endeavor is being copied by poor imitators who are so devoid of originality that they haven't a idea in their heads. Consequently they must continually copy and imitate other people.

This pest is exceedingly unattractive, and comes under the class of pests that should be killed rather than censured. Of course if one is famous enough to be imitated they do not object to so much, but it is the ordinary human beings like you and I who have to witness the actions of the imitator every day.

If it were not for the Imitator the life of this country would be a more vacant room than it now has, for usually when a person gets to the stage where they are around imitating something or someone, or other famous person, it's almost time to back the wagon up and take them away my deepest sympathy, for they are to be pitied.

Some of these days some kind-hearted law-maker is going to propose a state or national home for the Imitator, and his name will go down in the Hall of Fame as a great benefactor of the human race.

The Howell Trio of acrobats will also be on the program. They are all artists and perform a lot of new acrobatic stunts. Their work is clean and snappy. Mr. Strauss booked this act this week and feels elated over securing their services.

These five acts are all strictly high class in every respect and with them on the program, the free amusement end of the Karnival is sure to be admirably cared for.

'Nother Republican Gets State Position

Columbus, Sept. 25.—Frank J. Brownstead, of Lima, a Republican, today was appointed by the State Industrial Commission to succeed Otto M. Elzemann, of Cincinnati, a Democrat, as chief examiner of the state department of steam engineers.

Last week the commission appointed J. C. Callery of Hamilton to this position, but when this selection was vigorously objected to by the stationary engineers and labor leaders, it was withdrawn. After Callery's appointment was announced, a delegation of engineers called on Governor Willis and demanded that the appointment be withdrawn. The chief executive gave them assurance that another would be given the job. Elzemann said he would fight the move to dislodge him.

Elzemann received a letter from the Industrial Commission today, advising that his services would not be required after September 20. No reason was given.

This term will not expire for more than a year. Elzemann was formerly assistant chief examiner. Brownstead was a district examiner for seven years. He resigned a short time ago. The salary of the office is $3,000.

From Capt. Hager Davis, A Word To His Friends And Patrons

Hager Davis and his father, Capt. J. F. Davis, are possibly as well known, and have as wide a circle of friends, as any two men engaged in the steamboat business on the Ohio river. There are very few residents of Portsmouth that have never made the trip across the Fullerton ferry with Capt. Davis.

Recently when in the Fisher & Streich Drug Store, where he had called to purchase a bottle of the famous Tanlae, Mr. Davis told of the remarkable benefit that he had received from this medicine and expressed his pleasure in having the opportunity through the columns of The Times of telling his friends and patrons what his experience had been.

"I had doctored with most all the doctors, and had tried most all medicines without avail, until I was lucky enough to get hold of a bottle of Tanlae, and believe me, I am a different man since taking it. This stuff is something wonderful. I will say this: that if any one is troubled with catarrh and stomach as I have been, there is no use to continue to suffer, just go to Fisher & Streich's and get a bottle of Tanlae and get relief."

Mr. Davis states that his father, Capt. J. F. Davis, is also taking a course of the Tanlae treatment and is equally enthusiastic.

Fogs and damp to be found along great rivers is the cause of the prevalence of catarrhal troubles. Catarrh of the head most invariably terminates in affecting the throat, stomach, liver and kidneys. Catarrh of the stomach and kidneys is the most frequent cause of dyspepsia and Bright's disease. Tanlae has been found to be the most rational weapon with which to combat these distressing conditions.

Tanlae, called the "Master Medicine," is sold in Portsmouth at the Fisher & Streich Pharmacy, Sixth and Chillicothe Sts., where representatives are courteously explaining Tanlae. adv.

This is a resume of what increased business on this one system has done since September for men seeking employment.

"Movie" Expense Accounts Are Filed With The Auditor

Attorney William J. Meyer on Saturday filed with City Auditor George Gableman an account of the expenses incurred in circulating the "movie" petitions. The total expenditure was $8.55. Auditor Gableman will next week, in accordance with the law, file the petitions with the board of elections and the proposition of allowing motion picture theatres to open on Sundays will be placed on the ballot and submitted to the voters at the November election.

SAYS JAPAN WILL AID ALLIES WITH MUNITIONS ONLY

Premier Okuma.

Premier Okuma of Japan recently declared that for the present at least his government would not consider sending an expedition to Europe. But at the same time he stated Japan would do all she could for her allies in the way of supplying them with munitions.

True. Someone has found out that widows are remarry more often than widows; with the latter this is regarded as a misfortune and not a fault.—Washington Post.

Fire Prevention Day October 9th; Fires On Decrease

Fire Prevention Day will be observed in Ohio on Saturday, October 9.

Fire Chief McQuai stated Saturday that the day would be fittingly observed in the River City.

He also stated that from January 1 to September 24 this year only 75 alarms had been answered against 123 during the same period a year ago, which is evident that people are becoming more careful in the handling of fires and their different sources.

CYCLE CAR FIRM IS TO STAY IN PORTSMOUTH

The Rohe Cycle Car company is weeks," Dr. Rohe declared Saturday, going to re-establish itself in Portsmouth, it was announced Saturday by Dr. O. W. Rohe, one of the heaviest stockholders in the company.

"We have decided to stay here and expect to re-open our plant in a few days," Dr. Rohe declared Saturday.

The firm turned down offers to locate its plant in Hamilton, Huntington, Philadelphia, Niagara Falls, Richmond, Va., Chattanooga, Chicago and New York.

THE CAPITAL CITY.

People who have been in Columbus the past week or so can understand the reason why the new Deshler hotel is being built and why it is an attractive proposition from a financial standpoint. Several nights this week it was impossible to secure a room in any of the hotels and even cots were at a premium. Columbus is getting to be more and more a convention center and a business center for Central and Southern Ohio and with her present facilities in the hotel line, she cannot adequately care for the strangers within her gates.

And in this connection it is interesting to note the gradual drifting of people from this vicinity to Columbus rather than to Cincinnati, when they feel called upon to go outside to do their buying. It used to be that practically all outside trade from Portsmouth went to Cincinnati. Now at least half and probably more than that is going to Columbus and the percentage is increasing each year.

The automobile is perhaps in a measure accountable for this, good roads into Columbus being the rule rather than the exception, as in the case of some of her competitors. Automobile parties from this section invariably strike Columbus either going or coming, have been impressed with her business enterprise in manufacturing and other lines; and when they need things they cannot get at home, they naturally turn to Columbus to see if the want cannot be filled there. In this way our trade relations with the Capital City have grown steadily to the exclusion of Cincinnati which used to get it all.

MRS. BELMONT'S IDEA.

That leaders of the Woman's Suffrage movement have been figuring ahead on concerted political action, once women generally get the right to vote, has often been charged, and as often denied by the astute leaders of the suffragists. Now however, comes Mrs. Belmont, chief propagandist of the cause and boldly declares for independent and concerted action by women. In an address at San Francisco, Mrs. Belmont said:

"The union of this sisterhood of women voters is the power politically of the near future. For twenty centuries you have been led to believe your work was to patch up the evils germinated by man's so-called civilization. It is time for us women to have a civilization of our own."

This doctrine does not appeal to our namesake, of Portsmouth, New Hampshire, which says:

"Is it at all likely that a purely woman-made civilization would be any better than the present make-shift which is so contemptuously referred to as 'man-made'?" Certainly it would be superior in some important respects, where man's prejudice or ignorance or neglect has blocked human progress. But when it comes to organizing one sex into a political party whose program is to re-make the world in disregard of the other sex's needs or wishes, not only every sensible man but every sensible woman must see the folly of it. Even if the thing could be done—and of course it can't—it would mean disaster. No sex, not even the feminine, can re-mould the world and perfect human society. It takes both."

A RECONSTRUCTED MAN COSTS $500.

With exhibitions and catalogues of artificial limbs now brought to notice one gets to calculating the cost of a reconstructed man. Seemingly a little more than $500 would suffice. A pair of articulated legs cost about $150, and a pair of arms about $100. Ears, with drums, etc., cost $75 each, eyes $30 a pair, and so on. Without heart and brain a man is worth about $500. With them—the price might change.—London Chronicle.

Henry Walton looms up as the new Republican boss of the colored people. He claims to carry the colored vote in his pocket and he speaks for them when there is any patronage to bestow. Thus Hen named Price and Minor for the court house janitorships, after deciding that he did not want one of the jobs himself and the commissioners ratified the selections. And now Henry sits back and lords it over the other fellows who imagined that they were some pumpkins in the politician line.

Contractor Simpson is to the front with a request that the Hill road be raised a few feet. We believe in that. But in the meantime would it not be a little better if Contractor Simpson would make some progress towards finishing the road to the height his present contract calls for. We might all be "in some lone-some graveyard" as they say in the old camp meeting song, before Simpson would get the road done as asked for in the proposed change, judging by the way he has been working.

West Union has wakened up. She has decided that her streets need improving and a mass meeting of volunteer workers will take place next week with the idea of repairing and improving all the streets in the town. Two days will be devoted to the work and it is hoped to have each street in fine condition at the conclusion of the work.

Terre Haute has one mayor in the federal penitentiary and now it is seeking to remove another on the ground that he is a drunkard and guilty of immoral conduct. Fine brands of politics they have over there.

SOME DOPE ON "BILLS".!

OPPOSES POLITICAL CONTROL.

S. G. McClure, editor of the Youngstown Telegram, and Republican State Central Committeeman, who loyally supported Willis for election and through the early stages of his administration, has invidious comparison of Willis with Pattison and Harman and Cox, in his mind and has a hard time keeping it from his words. A strict partisan of no mean ability, this from him is indicative.

"Recent movements of Governor Willis in shifting the membership of the state board of administration are being interpreted as an indication of his intention to change the management of the state institutions. We do not believe it is the governor's purpose to do this, nor do we believe he intends to subordinate the state institutions to party politics."

But that he really does so believe is indicated when the editorial continues:

"Any changes in institution management are likely to be regarded as wholly political in their nature and the turning over of the care of the thousands of wards of the state to politicians is not wanted by Ohio people. It will be resented by them. By a sort of tacit consent state homes and charitable and correctional institutions have been free from the evil of being pawns in the political game. They have been infinitely better off because of this. The heads of these institutions have, in general, reciprocated. Few of them have political strength or ambitions and rarely has a superintendent or warden been used as a cog in the machine of any party or office holder. The two institutions with which north-eastern Ohio is most familiar bear out this claim. Dr. H. C. Eymann, superintendent of the Massillon asylum, is credited with being a Democrat. More than this, however, he is an alienist of unquestioned merit who has governed his charge without the slightest regard to politics. Superintendent James A. Leonard, of the Mansfield Reformatory, is a Republican, but under three Democratic governors any suggestion that he be replaced by a mere job-seeker was never offered and even if made would not have been entertained by Governors Pattison, Harman or Cox."

"The care of the insane, of infirm, of those who have violated the laws of orphans and aged soldiers is a duty in which there should be no suggestion of politics. We believe Governor Willis will show that instead of harboring the intention credited to him he is willing to follow the commendable example of a long list of his Republican and Democratic predecessors."

This editorial is based on the recent appointment of one Philbrick, a so-called Blue Democrat, as a member of the state board of administration.

Somebody happily suggests that it is about time for everybody in this country to cease thinking of the European belligerents and to think of ourselves—to be, first, last and all the time, pro-American. Fortunately, we can indulge in this selfishness and at the same time serve humanity at large the best.—Columbus Dispatch.

Sketches of Little NEW YORK

many years ago when low-necked hacks were the fashion a prominent boulevardier chartered one from a night-hawk on Broadway and rode for six hours from the Knickerbocker on the South to the Ansonia on the North. He established a record.

This record has now been smashed to smithereens by a Broadway fashion plate who calls himself Louis R. Morris. The other evening when the lights came on Mr. Morris walked unsteadily out of an old rose and gold Memphis-origed cafe. Cocktails and sundry other things made him walk with a list and he crooned a lullaby to himself. As he got out in the dazzling lights he hailed a genial faced taxi driver.

"Just drive me about to cool off a bit," he commanded. And they withered away. After they had visited Stanley's, Church-bill's, the Claremont—once the home of Napoleon's brother, and a visiting place of Theodosia Burr, they taxi cabbed to Jack's. By this time the chauffeur was beginning to wonder just how much his bill was. They had been out 12 hours. The meter, just clicked off $48 and Morris confessed that he couldn't pay it. So he landed in jail but he broke a record anyway.

Carolyn Wells is fairly burning with ambition. Not satisfied with raking in reams of bank notes writing verse and prose, she declares that she will never be satisfied until she realizes her ambition to ensconce herself in a taxicab.

And this stirs hopes in Franklin P. Adams that he may hop in a cab some day. But their vaulting ambitions are as nothing compared to Jane Pride who has a life-long yearning to be able to write her hands.

Once she masters this art she is sure she will be able to go on triumphantly until at last she is able to "bride prettily."

New York editors are a queer lot. They employ cultured young men afflicted with superior intellectuality to poke fun at the rural editors and yet they pull the most ludicrous japeries of all themselves.

The other day Mrs. Russell Sage reached her 87th birthday and one cannot help admiring her unusual self restraint as noted by the New York newspapers. She denied herself the noisy racketty manner of celebrating birthdays at the age of 87. Not for her was the bacchanalian orgy. Hark to the Evening

Park Row is also chuckling a little or so at the way the Evening World threw a javelin into the quivering flesh of Editor Arthur Brisbane, the $50,000-a-year Hearst editor. The other day Mr. Brisbane in one of his ringing editorials called his readers' attention to the fact that the editor of the Journal was paid the highest salary in town and that some of the city staffs did not receive his total salary.

Mr. Brisbane may or may not have written the editorial, but the next day the Evening World replied: "The editor of the Evening Journal boasts that he gets more salary than the president of the United States, and more than any other evening paper pays its entire staff of editors. But he has to endure the unspeakable degradation of earning it!"

Ed Hungerford, who is zig-zagging his way to the Frisco fair, stopped off in El Paso long enough to learn the 1. Fillum runs the Fashion-Plate Restaurant and Short Order House. And while he was in the Harvey House at Wellington, Kansas, the waitress asked him if he would have an egg omelet.

The Difference

The booster is the party who is hauling down the dough. The folks are glad to grasp his unit. Wherever he may go.

He's the little ray of sunshine. It's Johnny on the spot. And his talk is mighty welcome.

Though it strains the truth a lot. There's a sort of benediction. In his cheerful "Howdy do," And he makes your life worth living.

While he's round a joshin' you. The knocker is the person. Who's the sorriest of chumps.

He is blue and melancholy. And he goes 'round in the dumps. When the people see him coming.

They walk 'round a city block. They needn't stand and listen. To his stone-age fossil knock. He's a burden to his country.

He is no good to himself. And his victims shout thanksgiving. When he's laid upon the shelf.

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, Sept. 25.—A further rise in railway stocks attended today's early operations. Such representative issues as Pennsylvania, Canadian Pacific, Reading and eastern trunk lines being in especial demand. Pennsylvania opened with a sale of 3,000 shares at an advance of 1 1/2 to 1 1/2. Canadian Pacific rose 1 1/2 to 1 1/2. New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio and the anthracite shares ranged from substantial fractions to a point. Baldwin Locomotive and General Motors were the strong features of the special group, Baldwin rising 2 1/2 to the new high price of 95 1/2, with six for Motors at 34 1/2. United States Steel was unchanged at the outset but soon rose on heavy trading to 78 1/2, an advance of 3/4.

New York, Sept. 25.—Extensive buying of the leading railway stocks, mostly at higher prices, was the dominant feature of today's very active market. The inquiry converged around such standard issues as Pennsylvania, the transcontinental group and the principal trunk lines, with a fair sprinkling of southern issues. Gains ranged from 1 to 4 points and the demand seemed to derive its inspiration from substantial sources. For the first time in many weeks specialties played a subordinate part although a few material gains were registered by these stocks, notably Baldwin Locomotive, General Motors, Lackawanna Steel and Texas company.

The closing was strong. Bonds were strong.

any advice you would give me so as to overcome this and oblige.

RASHFUL KIDDO.

Practice reciting an oration or reading aloud in a quiet room. Stand before a mirror and speak as loud as you can. You will become so used to hearing your own voice during quiet that it will no longer embarrass you to raise it in public.

Dear Dolly—I have an ivory mirror which has a yellow spot caused by a drop of perfume upon it. Could you tell me how to remove it?

Rub, first with the finest sandpaper you can find. Should this be insufficient, after you have polished the ivory with chamois, wash with peroxide of hydrogen, and if the blur remains, rub into the stain with the tip of the finger faithfully crystals of oxalic acid slightly moistened. Finally, polish with the chamois skin.

Dear Dolly—How can I stiffen delicate cotton goods?

DAISY.

in milk. The milk may be diluted with clear water if necessary.

Dear Dolly—A man has been calling on me regularly for the past year and we have grown to think a great deal of each other. We are both young, he is 23 and I am 19, and my mother objects to my having only one "beau". She says that a girl of that age should be having a good time with a half dozen different men, and she cannot understand that other men simply fail to interest me. Do you think it would be very wrong if we were to be married secretly, and did not announce it until we were better prepared financially?

BLUE EYES.

Clandestine marriages never turn out happily. There is something in the very secrecy of a bond of that kind which grows irksome, and causes endless quarrels and jars. When it finally is announced, all your "friends" will talk about it and not in the most pleasant way. After all, people do not relish being fooled, and they will never forgive a secret marriage. I think you let me. What can I do to get her to let me go? BLACK EYES.

turned out for the very best, that you would never be quite able to live down the insinuations. You are very young yet, and a few years cannot make very much difference at this time of your life, and you may find that you are not suited to each other, or your tastes may diverge widely within a few years. That isn't so serious when one isn't married, but it means a life-time of misunderstanding if a congeniality of interests isn't assured.

Miss Wise—Will you please publish a recipe for making library paste.

Times Reader.

You can buy a good-sized jar of library paste at any book store for 10 cents. That is cheaper than you could make it. I have a good recipe but cannot find it just now.

Dear Miss Wise—I have been troubled very much with warts on my hands and I would be pleased to know what would take them off.

A READER.

Use witch hazel after bathing the face and apply a good powder before going out. Wear a veil when it is cold or windy. Don't go to Chicago. Follow your mother's advice. She no doubt has a good reason for not permitting you to go there.

Rena Y.—They cannot, so do not try it. It's against the law in every state.

Two Bachelor Girls—I refuse to publish or answer letters as foolish as the one you sent me. You are old enough to know better. Would advise you to take a few lessons in spelling and writing instead of making goo-goo eyes at bachelors.

A Baby's Birthday.

Baby's coming is anticipated with great joy, and it is of the utmost importance that great care is taken to make this important event a happy one. Mother's Friend, applied externally and to the head of all druggists, is of the greatest value for it robs childbirth of its agonies and dangers, makes the mother comfortable and helps make baby strong, healthy and vigorous. It is effective and dependable and has been used successfully for many years. Definite instructions are furnished with each bottle.

JEALOUSY LEADS TO A KILLING

Shot Gun Tears A Gaping Hole In Victim's Chest

Alleged Gun User Flees To Kentucky

Walter Benson, aged 25, a resident of the Star Yards, near Sciotoville, was shot and almost instantly killed at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, the shooting taking place near the front end of a small shantyboat moored at the foot of Madison street in Sciotoville.

Robert Means, who is said to have been on the boat and who soon after the shooting fled to Kentucky, is being sought by Sheriff Pete Smith.

Opening the front door of the shantyboat, it is said, that the gun user fired both barrels of a shotgun at Walter Benson and his brother, Bert Benson. The contents of the gun which it is claimed was intended for Bert Benson, struck his brother, Walter, who fell dead in his tracks, his left upper chest being shot away, according to Coroner Dr. Walter Daehler, who was soon on the scene and examined the dead body.

While it is not definitely known what prompted the tragic affair jealousy is said to have caused the murder.

Following the shooting Bert Benson, a brother of the dead man and Mrs. Susie Means, Anna Rogers and Mrs. Mary Allen were arrested by Sheriff Pete Smith and brought to the county jail.

According to information secured at Sciotoville shortly after the murder Bert Benson, who has been employed in Huntington, came to Sciotoville, Saturday and called on his brother, Walter, whose life was so cruelly snuffed out. He informed Walter that there were two letters at Chesapeake, O., near Huntington for Mrs. Mary Allen, who is said to have been on the shantyboat.

Rowed To His Death

Getting into a jobboat the two brothers rowed to the shantyboat. Bert, it is claimed, called to Mrs. Allen and notified her that there were two letters at Chesapeake addressed to her.

The ominous silence that brooded over the frail craft was broken when a man opened the front door of the boat and emptied both barrels of a shotgun directly at the Benson boys. Walter fell dead in his tracks. He is supposed to have been an innocent victim of the affair having only accompanied his brother to the boat on what proved to be his death journey. The gun user without picking out his man fired directly at the Benson boys as they stood on the front end of the shantyboat, it is alleged.

Officials On The Scene

Immediately after the shooting it is claimed that the gun user crossed the Ohio river in a small boat and soon disappeared. Sheriff Pete Smith and Coroner Daehler were soon notified and lost no time in reaching the scene of the murder. Benson's body was removed to E. E. Haquard's undertaking establishment in Sciotoville and a post mortem examination will be held by Coroner Daehler, who also expects to hold an inquest into the affair Sunday.

Victim Leaves Wife And Children

Benson, who was shot down in his tracks, leaves a wife and two small children, Gifford, a son aged 2 years and Bessie, a two months old daughter. The family just

Mother of Victim Faints at News

It was reported that Mrs. Laura Benson, mother of the dead man dropped dead upon receipt of the news that her son had been so wantonly murdered. She swooned away, but was soon revived by a physician.

According to a story told to Sheriff Smith by Bert Benson, Robert Means tried to kill him and that he would probably have shared the same fate as his brother had he not arrested the shotgun from Means. With the body of his dead brother lying in a jobboat Bert Benson rowed it to the Star Yards.

Mrs. Mary Allen told Sheriff Smith that Bert Benson pointed a revolver at her before any shooting took place and that he threatened to kill her.

Means, who is wanted by officials for the shooting, is only 23 years old and is a son of Mrs. Susie Means, who with Anna Rogers and Mrs. Mary Allen were placed in custody by the sheriff.

VON PAPEN DECLARES LETTER WAS TO WIFE

San Francisco, Sept. 25.—Captain Franz Von Papen, military attache of the German embassy at Washington, and Prince Von Hatzfeldt, who are visiting this city, will leave next Tuesday for Mexico, it was announced today. Both men maintain silence as to their exact destination and the object of their visit to the southern republic.

Captain Von Papen denied today that the expression "idiotic Yankees" contained in the letter entrusted to J. E. J. Archibald, and intercepted by the British authorities was intended to apply to the American people.

"The much discussed letter was to my wife," he said. "In passing I might say that publishing a man's letter to his wife is deemed bad form. When the British authorities at Falmouth found these letters on Mr. Archibald published only an excerpt of my letter, thus changing its meaning entirely. My wife or any one else reading the letter from start to finish would have gathered that the expression 'idiotic Yankees' referred to the publishers of a New York newspaper."

"The newspaper had been calling us conspirators and other objectionable epithets. It grew especially vehement after the portfolio containing certain of our private papers had been stolen from one of our men on the train."

GREEKS WELCOME CHANCE FOR WAR

Athens, Sept. 25. (Via Paris).—Great relief has been caused throughout Greece by the order, calling for the mobilization of the army. The people apparently are glad to exchange the uncertainties of politics for the possibility of war. It is not thought, however, that hostilities will follow immediately, although it is generally believed in unofficial circles at least, that a struggle between Greece and Bulgaria cannot be avoided eventually. Mobilization is under way today and is proceeding quietly. The people are somewhat bewildered by the latest turn of events, not knowing whether it may lead them.

King Constantine, who recently passed through a severe illness, is indisposed and his conferences with Premier Venizelos have been postponed for a day.

GREEK PARLIAMENT MAY DECLARE SIEGE

Paris, Sept. 25.—7:40 a. m.—A vote upon declaring a state of Hlas dispatch from Athens says: "Parliament will be called upon at its session on next Wednesday not only to proclaim martial law, but to vote upon declaring a state of siege in Macedonia and other measures the situation may demand.

"The National Bank will advance funds to meet the present needs."

TURKS EXTERMINATE ARMENIAN PEOPLE

London, Sept. 25.—"The Turks are gradually but effectively exterminating the Armenian people," asserts the Delegation correspondent of the Times. "The modus operandi is to send from each Armenian village day by day as many persons as a train can carry. When they arrive at Koniah, or some adjacent station they are turned out and an escort supplied over the Taurus mountains.

"Once on the other side they are supplied with enough food for a few days and told to continue their journey to the neighborhood of Mosul as they will now be in perfect safety. But in point of fact the region is nothing but a desert and before many hours marauding bands of Kurds or Bedouins rob and pillage these helpless men, women and children, so that those who are not actually slain die of hunger or thirst. Not one ever reaches the intended destination, for should any one try to escape in another direction, Turkish shepherds have orders to shoot them at sight.

"The consequence is that many distracted mothers throw their

The low, narrow brim which goes with the high crowned hat this season is shown in this model of latter's black plush which in the days of our mother was known as satin beaver. The design is a modification of the hat of the direction period and suggests nothing so much as the popular hat used with the riding habit. It is trimmed very simply with a band of white satin passing through a steel cut buckle.

Local German's View Of European War

(Written by Louis F. Korth, former Editor of The Correspondent.)

Friday, September 24, 1915.

All Germany celebrated the fall of Wilna on Sunday last at home, in the camps and trenches.

The Russians did not quietly evacuate the city as London had it in first reports, but it fell after the German armies had maneuvered the Russian Wilna army out of its positions to the north, west and south of the city. Then General

Eichhorn took the fortifications, within the last month around the open town by bombardment and storm.

Wilna with its 185,000 inhabitants, where the great Napoleon's star rose highest and sank deepest, is next to Warsaw the largest industrial city and railroad center in Western Russia. It has big government works, gun shops, military magazines, etc., and is the main point of the Riga-Rovno railroad, on which the Russians had concentrated after Warsaw and Brest, their third line. They defended it with great vigor and retreated too late to avoid disaster.

The Russian front from Riga to Rovno is now a broken reed in three parts. General Eichhorn crushed the right wing between Wilna and Duenaburg and threw it upon the center on the Niemen, and Prince Leopold appeared on the left flank at Slonim and formed junction with Galtwitz who is driving the Russians in the Niemen valley. The Russian center is now trying to extricate itself from both on the road to Minsk, which the defeated corps between Lida and Baranovitchi have reached in wretched condition and those between Lida and Wilna and the Wilna army itself are trying hard to get to. And even this road is in danger as the cavalry divisions of Below and Lanzenstein, who broke the Wilna Duenaburg road at Sventitsany, have swept the country in a circuit of 75 miles to the east and are reported to be between Vilenska and Borisow, east of Minsk already. Eichhorn, Prince Leopold and Mackensen are closing in on it.

The German general staff says: "By the successful advance of General Eichhorn and the heavy attacks of Generals Galtwitz and Scholz the Russians have been forced to retreat along their whole front. Prince Leopold is pressing heavily on their left wing. General Mackensen is nearing Lulinez."

Prince Leopold is driving the Russians between Lida and Baranovitchi, where the Minsk road crosses the main road, and Mackensen is coming up on his right from Pinsk through the swampy country. He is nearing Lulinez, where the Russians are trying to block his way with superior forces.

It looks like disaster to the Czar's army. How much of it and what parts have escaped is not known, but even these must be demoralized. London counts it out.

On the northern front, where the Russians hold out yet, General Bessler has broken the fortifications along the Duna at Alexandrovsk and established a base between Duenaburg and Drina, from where siege operations against Duenaburg, a strong fortress, which protects Riga to the south, are now under way. The bombardment of the outer works has begun.

A battle is in progress at Lennaine south of Riga.

In the Volhynian fortress sector the Russians have been making desperate efforts to dislodge the Austrians again from Lusk and Dubno and to relieve Rodno, to stiffen Roumania. On Sereth and Stripa (southeast Galicia) there has been no fighting since the Russians were repulsed two weeks ago.

Late demonstrations of Austrian troops on the northern frontier of Serbia, on Save and Drina, lead to the conjecture that the much talked of new offensive against Serbia for passage through that country by way of Bulgaria to Turkey and the Dardanelles has begun. That a German army will participate in it is evidenced by the activity of German artillery in the bombardment of Belgrad and Semendria and the whole south bank of the Danube.

It is supposed that the combined Austrian and German armies will attempt to force the Danube at Semendria and advance through the wide Morava valley to the Bulgarian border, or at Orsova near the Roumanian frontier, the old iron gate of the crusaders, where the Temesvar railroad crosses the river and furnishes means of communication and transportation.

The battery duel and silencing of the Serbian guns at Semendria, which Berlin has reported, is the overtone in this new act of the war drama which starts on the beautiful blue Danube in the land of song, and may end at the pyramids of Egypt, where France and England, the present allies, once fought for supremacy.

If the Central powers are successful in their immense and daring new venture the Balkan and the Dardanelles questions will be settled definitely and peace be made before Christmas at Constantinople or Cairo where Great Britain will have to face the alternative of losing India and with it power and prestige or make the best of a bad job in peace terms agreeable to her enemies.

Bulgaria has mobilized her army and concentrated ten divisions on the Serbian frontier, probably in conjunction with Austro-Serbian operations, whereupon on Serbia has proclaimed the territory a war zone. 50,000 Macedonian volunteers have joined the Bulgarian army. Formerly Bulgaria observes armed neutrality with freedom of action but if she is forced to fight it will be on the side of Germany and Austria.

General Michael Savoff, who led the victorious Bulgarian army in the first Balkan war, has been called to Sofia.

The Bulgarian government has officially announced that it will take possession of the strip of territory along the Maritza river from Mustapha Pasha (Adrianople) to Dedegatcha on the Aegean Sea, which was lately ceded to her by Turkey, on October 11.

As the Allied Powers in a very decisive note have declared, that they would consider this an unfriendly act, purpose and meaning of it are clear.

As a counter to Bulgaria Greece also mobilized and instituted a moratorium.

The Allies of the west find a consolation for the reverses of their allies of the east in the fact that General Joffres' troops have crossed the Aisne-Marne canal near Rheims, which is succeeded by the German general staff who explains the incident. The block-houses on the canal had become untenable under the severe French fire and were evacuated.

Artillery duels are now the order of the day all along the western front. The Allies are very lavish with their munition. It seems they want to force the Germans to exhaust their supply and quit. Even the British fleet has been busy again bombarding the Belgian coast, but was forced to quit by the German shore batteries.

At Bray on the Sommes the Germans sprung a mine and followed with an attack which developed into a regular battle along that part of the line. The fighting was so fierce and bitter that no quarter was given, no prisoners taken. The Germans gained some ground.

General Jan Hamilton, commander of the British troops on the Dardanelles, in a report to Lord Kitchener has much to say about the terrors of warfare in those parts, under which Turks and Allies suffer alike. The report that the Turkish troops are demoralized he contradicts. In fact he praises their valor.

A Renter correspondent says, the Turks have plenty of munition, but none to waste. They keep up a terrific fire on the Surva front. Friend and foe are making preparations for a winter campaign.

The Turkish Black Sea fleet has been bombed the Crimean coast. Constantinople claims victories over the British in Asia Minor.

An allies force of 120,000 men, probably Italians, have been landed on the island of Lomnos.

From the Austro-Italian frontier only minor affairs are reported. In the Alps snow has fallen. On the Tyrolean, the Carinthian and the Littoral fronts the Italians continue their unsuccessful attacks, with heavy loss as the Austrians assert. On the Fohlgaria plateau (Tyrol) 1,000 dead were counted.

Passenger of the Philadelphia and Orduna, who were eye witnesses of the Zeppelin raids on London on September 8, declare that the damage done was far less than reported, especially in New York, and studied jurisprudence in Hannover, Germany, after marriage, his wife furnished the means. Lord Reading is considered England's foremost financial expert.

Rev. Albert J. Nast, editor of "Apologete," published in Cincinnati, prints a series of resolutions of the Central Council of the ten annual German conferences of the Methodist Episcopal church against "the enormous shipments of arms and munitions to the belligerent allies, as they constitute a direct contribution to the prolongation of the war, increasing its awful toll of suffering and death." The resolutions were sent to the president.

The editor of the London Daily News, A. G. Gardner, who is against conscription, is very frank in his talk about it. He says: "The war is costing our rich men too much. They want their war, but they want it cheap. They are shocked that the men who are lining the trenches today and may be buried in them tomorrow should be paid for their services."

A London correspondent is scolding the Germans out of their wits by telling them that General French is now sending his rear lines into battle. He says: "After long training they are now able to march directly from the transports into battle, etc. This is the fourth time that the English have made up their mind to come out from their island. First they crushed Philipp II, then Louis XIV and then Napoleon I. This fourth time it is the German that will have to bite the dust."

If we are not mistaken the Germans have helped the English some in their wars, for instance at Waterloo, not counting Blucher, as to the fourth time the writer has evidently forgotten Mons. St. Quentin, Maubeuge, Antwerp, La-buasse, the Dardanelles and some incidents at sea.

The Philadelphia Ledger wants to excuse the wholesale traffic in arms and munition by some of our industrialists, not the government with the traffic in human lives during our revolutionary war bettered George III and some of the small German potentates. He connects Frederic the Great of Prussia with it and calls him the father of Prussian militarism.

Frederic sharply condemned the practice and blocked the road for the Hessians through his territory. He was the first ruler who recognized American independence.

The gold reserve of the German Reichsbank has risen during the year from $312,000,000 to $600,000,000. For war loans were paid in $2,250,000,000. New investments in industrial enterprises were $125,000,000. Germany has occupied enemy country of the size of Missouri."

"On August 1, at the end of the first year of the war, there were 1,694,000 enemy combatants in German and Austrian prison camps. Booty made by German armies—3,000 heavy and light guns, 3,000 machine guns. This number has been considerably increased during August and September, probably by 200,000 prisoners and 2,000 guns. The economic conditions of the country are good."

Jacob Schiff, head of the German-American banking house (Kuhn, Loeb & Co., in New York, one of the biggest in the country, and the Speyer banking firm have refused to participate in the British-French war loan, which will not be a thousand millions but only half of that, $500,000,000 just enough for one month. England will hardly come again.

The submarine war is going at a slow pace at present, but among the British ships sunk this week were the big freighters Lukmoor, 4306 tons, and Zeferino, 6430 tons.

On Thursday three big British steamers were sunk, Chancellor, a Harrison liner, the horse transport Anglo-Columbia from Montreal and the freighter Urbino.

Swedish banks have advanced Germany 40 million Kronen for lifting the export embargo of coal to Sweden.

From optimism to pessimism, from pessimism to quiet resignation, that is at present the feeling of the French people—Paris letter.

Two of Germany's best and most popular writers, Ludwig Ganghofer and Walter Blohm, have been seriously wounded at the front.

THE LATEST IN SPORTS DOM

Fading Braves Have Lost Their Popularity

PROBABLY no club in the history of baseball lost its popularity as soon as did the Boston Braves. Last summer when Geo. Stallings took them on their memorable march right through the National league, from cellar to garret, the Braves became the pets of the baseball fans, and when they completed their great work by taking the world's series in straight heats they were the idols of the National pastime. It was natural that a tall end crew, who had long been the goat of the game, should become popular by showing fight and getting into the very center of the spotlight, and it was likewise natural to assume that this popularity would stick for some time. However, such has not been the case and the chances are the great bulk of the fan is pleased that Stallings and his crowd do not appear to have a chance to repeat. This loss of popularity is due to two things; the Phillies are like-wise newcomers and have pulled the unexpected, and the Braves have conducted themselves in a manner to tire the patience of their most loyal rooters.

Asheville, N. C., Sept. 25.—Jack Corbett, manager of the Asheville club of the North Carolina League, which yesterday won the final game of the series from Rocky Mount of the Virginia League, has challenged the New Orleans team of the Southern League for a series to determine the winner of an all-Dixie pennant. Manager Dobbs won such a pennant while the manager of the Chattanooga team in the South Atlantic League.

Hunter Likes Cobb

Fred Hunter is a great lover of Ty Cobb. Fred believes Cobb is the smartest ball player who ever stepped on a ball field. The reason so many players dislike Cobb is because he beats them to everything they attempt to pull off. Hunter said Friday while engaged in a fanning box.

FOHL RETAINMENT IS WISE MOVE

There was hardly anything for President Somers of the Cleveland club to do but retain Lee Fohl as manager of the Indians. In the first place Lee never had a chance to show his worth with the collection he was given this summer, and secondly, there is nothing to be gained by changing leaders every year. Good managers are not hanging around on bushes, and Somers is pursuing the best course, that of retaining his manager and trying to gather some ball players to help him win.

Ironton Is To Play P. H. S. Nov. 13

Portsmouth High School's football schedule has been arranged so that it can be played in Ironton the home of P. H. S. Hitter, rival in athletics of all kinds. November 13 was an open date but Ironton has contracted for this and this makes the schedule complete except the Thanksgiving game. Ironton was to play here November 6 but when Ironton took the November 13 date the schedule was changed, P. H. S. going to Ironton on the 6th and 13th, S. coming here on the 13th. The former schedule gave Portsmouth four games in a row at home, the change leaving three games in a row starting with Huntington on October 26, Jackson on October 23 and Gallipolis on October 20.

S. O. S. SIGNALS FAILED, AND "CHATTIE" IS IN THE WORKHOUSE

Police Clerk Dennis Coriell took R. F. Smith, the "fake millionaire," and Miss Chasteline Cooper to the Cincinnati workhouse, Saturday morning. The young woman had sent out "S. O. S." signals over town appealing to men to come to her rescue but they evidently decided they had no loose change to part with. She was caught in a raid the police made on the gasoline boat Polly a few nights ago.

Larry McLean, the large and eccentric catcher canned from the Giants not long ago, is now managing an independent baseball team. The organization he now manages is said to be a wild one with makeshift uniforms and no two socks alike in the crowd.

BRAVES AND TIGERS MAY FILL IN AT COMING 'WORLD'S SERIES

Boston, Sept. 25.—A meeting between the Boston Braves and the Detroit Tigers, respectively pennant contenders in the National and American leagues in the event that neither becomes a participant in the world's series, has been the subject of negotiations between the management of the teams, it became known today. It is proposed to have the teams meet at Braves' field on the days on which the Red Sox and Philadelphia are battling in the latter city.

Should the world's series be decided in straight games, the proposed exhibition series would stop with the second contest.

Cobb Is Swat King

Chicago, Sept. 25.—Ty Cobb is leading the American league in four departments of the game, in batting, slugging, scoring and in total base hitting. Averages published today show that the Detroit star has beaten his team Sam Crawford, for the leadership in total base column, and is leading with .291 in base slugging. Cobb has established a record for the league. He has stolen 59, one above the record made by Milton of Washington in 1912. Cobb's batting average of the last week, .371, remains unchanged. Old-time Philadelphia, leads in home runs with 6, while Burns of Detroit and Fournier of Chicago are tied for second with 5 each.

In batting Fournier has jumped from eighth place to a tie with his teammate, Eddie Collins. They are hitting at a .322 clip. Following are Speaker, Boston .280; McInnis, Philadelphia .316; Jackson, Chicago .311; Veach, Detroit .308; Crawford, Detroit .307; Kink, Cleveland .303; Gainer, Boston .297; Strunk, Philadelphia .297.

Ruth Is Leader

The leading pitchers in the American league are:

Ruth, Boston, won 17, lost 6; Foster, Boston 10 and 7; Shore, Boston 18 and 7; Leonard, Boston, 14 and 6; Drugg, Detroit, 22 and 11; Egan, Detroit, 22 and 6; Johnson, Washington, 21 and 12; Coveleskie, Detroit 22 and 12; Galle, Washington, 16 and 9; Scott, Chicago, 21 and 12; Ayres, Washington, 11 and 6; Fisher, Chicago, 22 and 12; Fisher, New York, 18 and 11; Dahne, Detroit 10 and 11.

Where are the critics, who said the Cubs would win the pennant. They are probably keeping company with the chaps who picked the Braves to beat the Phillies.

Fans Favor Boston Club

Eastern fans insist that Boston is going to run away from the Phillies in the coming big game. Well if they do Grover Alexander will have to break a leg or an arm. Expert critics contend that Boston will have to win the series on the Braves' lot as the Phils are almost invincible on their own lot.

Chester Penix has been matched to box six rounds with Ed Wells before the Eiks clam bake at Chillicothe next Tuesday. Penix is one of the most promising boxers in Portsmouth.

Philadelphia writers claim that the Red Sox will do good to win two games in the big series.

Cravath Falls

The fall of Cravath, the heavy hitting outfielder of the Philadelphia, marked the week's work among the National League balmers. Cravath, hitherto leading run getter, home run hitter and first in total bases of the league, was tied for total runs by Doyle of New York, passed for totals established by the Giants' captain, and Jimman of Pittsburgh, retaining only his home run. Doyle increased his percentage as leading batsman league with an average of .321. Luders, Philadelphia, is second with .312. The next eight batters are:

Finchman, Pittsburgh .310; Daubert, Brooklyn .302; Griffith, Cincinnati .300; Robertson, New York .305; Snyder, St. Louis .303; Markle, New York .301; Connolly, Boston .294; Lon, St. Louis .291.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take a glass of Salts if your Back hurts or Bladder bothers—Most forms uric acid.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat gives uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in its efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's uric waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness. Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

OPENING DAY OF KARNIVAL TO CARRY A "PUNCH"

Wednesday, October 6, is to be the first day of the Korn Karnival.

It is to be the opening day and it is going to be just as big a day as the last day or any intervening day.

This year's Korn Karnival is to be a high powered affair. It is going to start right off on high gear. There isn't going to be any low or intermediate gear.

In short the first day is going to be one of the biggest. There will not be a luke warm hour from the official opening Wednesday morning until the close Saturday night.

And the first day will be there with a punch. If you miss the first day you will miss one of the most spectacular and stupendous features of the entire Karnival.

That two mile dinner will be one of the most pretentious affairs ever attempted. Its success is all assured. In addition there will be a Boosters' parade on this, the first day. And this Boosters' parade is to be some parade. It, with the Two Mile Dinner, will be two of the brilliant features of the Karnival.

—both planned for the first day.

Every moment a Karnival from Wednesday morning on. No drag, no "preparatory" days but every day of the four days a big feature day and the "Opening Day" just as spectacular as the day's following.

ORDERS INVESTIGATION OF ALL PUBLIC DANCES

TICKETS FOR TWO MILE DINNER ARE ON SALE

The mayor has given the chief of police the following instructions governing public dances, of which the executive office claims to have received numerous complaints:

The Chief of Police—Subsequent to the number of public dances given in the city, which follow with the usual number of complaints relative to noise and clamor therefrom, suggests the need of an investigation for the purpose of determining the class and character of people who constitute these crowds.

The department insists that there shall be no practice which has for its tendency a rendezvous, for meeting place for lead women and their followers maintained in this city, through which disease may follow in its wake, or be a disturbing factor in family life. These agencies, which are regarded by a few as filling a public need, shall be conducted as free from disorder, as any such PUBLIC DANCE reasonably can be.

The office finds affidavits filed by men charging their wives with disorderly conduct resulting from attendance at these dances during the absence of the husband, likewise against the husband who visits these places with other women. All of which has a demoralizing tendency upon community life and should neither be encouraged nor countenanced. Children, the offspring from these parents who have separated and start on a career of immorality, are a charge upon the community and must be safeguarded and their interests properly cared for.

Respectfully submitted,
ADAM FRICK, Mayor.

The Movies

The Lyric Offers A Special Program of High Class Features for Next Week

The Last Chapter of "The Goddess" will be shown on Monday along with two other good pictures, everybody will want to see the ending of this great serial so you better come early on Monday and see how it ends up.

Tuesday brings an exceptionally interesting feature in "Ranson's Folly", the picture version of Richard Harding Davis' dashingly story, it's a great picture; the action is vivid, ripping along with the abandon of clean, red-blooded men, Richard Harding Davis has never been surpassed, in the "best seller", "Ranson's Folly" he is at his best. Edward Earle and Mabel Trunnelle are the stars and never were two stars better suited to their roles than this triumphant duo. "Ranson's Folly" is a masterpiece in four splendid parts.

Scene From "The Slim Princess" At Lyric Wednesday.

"The Slim Princess" is the big attraction for Wednesday. Francis X. Bushman as the American millionaire adventurer and Ruth Stonehouse as "The Slim Princess" are simply adorable in this picture. Everybody knows the story, written by the Prince of humorists, George Ade. It is a happy, irresistible, fascinating mixture of adventure, comedy, romance and drama. Intensely interesting, in all its various moods. The settings and costumes are sumptuous, the cast is one of recognized excellence. It is an Essanay masterpiece and will rank with Bushman's last picture "Graustark" as a genuine triumph.

The Darkening Trail With William S. Hart, Columbia Tonight.

The wet and slimy character and the driving persistence of the rainy season in Alaska is pictured with remarkable realism in the four-part Mutual master picture, "The Darkening Trail." Scene after scene is shown wherein the rain drives in great, blinding streaks across the front of the picture and the actors and actresses struggling through it in typical Alaskan garb drip with moisture. "The Darkening Trail" will be shown at the Columbia this evening.

Mary Pickford the world's foremost motion picture star, repeats in "Rags" the transcendent triumph she obtained in "Tess of the Storm Country." hitherto concealed to be her greatest portrayal. Always inimitable, always human, lovable and impulsive, she makes the character of "Rags" a living, breathing incarnation of all that is sweet and tender. The dramatic situations are numerous and powerful, and the sacrifices, renunciation, and ultimate triumph of the abused and oppressed title character are thrilling in the extreme. "Rags" is a genuine Pickford classic.

Don't fail to see "Little Mary" in this picture at the Columbia next Tuesday, afternoon and evening.

"Always in his Way" made in to film form from Charles K. Harris' famous sentimental ballad, is the next release on the program

Friday brings another wonderful picture in the celebrated emotional drama "Sold" with Pauline Frederick starring. It is a great big strong story, tense with vital action in every one of its five wonderful reels, a photoplay that will make an indelible impression on the minds of all who see it. A drama that reaches the climax of a woman's devotion.

Saturday's picture is another headliner "Infatuation", a drama of stage life featuring beautiful Marguerite Fischer and Harry Pollard, in four parts.

of the Metro Picture corporation, and comes to the Columbia next Thursday.

"Always in the Way" was pictured from Charles K. Harris' song of the same name, which is, perhaps, remembered by almost everybody as being the famous song hit of ten years ago.

The Arcana

Announces "A Daughter of the Jungle" as the headliner for today, featuring Marie Walcamp and Wellington Playter. This production was written and produced by H. McRae and is one of the very finest. "The Village Smithy" is another fine picture that will certainly please you. Don't forget the great moving picture event of the season Charles Chaplin with his mile of fun and 5,000 laughs will be here Tuesday, Sept. 28. A regular collection of screaming comedies. A good laugh is a great health producer, so if you desire to live long and happy, see Charlie. Business still flourishes at the Arcana and the fine music grows more popular every day. If you wish to have a good time visit Manager Potts.

At the Strand

An all star cast, consisting of Billie Ritchie, Gertrude Selby, Pathe Lehrmann and Harry Gribbons are featured in "Life and Moving Pictures," a two-reel L-Ko comedy that is a regular whirlwind of fun from first to last.

This farce comedy is based on the song "He's a Cousin of Mine, Just a Cousin of Mine."

"The Double Standard" a Victor drama, featuring Wm. Dowlan and Violet Mac Millan. As the title indicates, this story is based upon the modern problem of women's rights to live the same sort of a life, in all the details, that her husband lives.

Following our regular custom for Saturdays we will show Charlie Chaplin in one of his biggest mix-ups.

Don't miss this one chance to see the two greatest screen comics in the universe at the same time.

Temple Theatre

Tonight is an American production in two parts entitled "The Jilt" starring Winnie Greenwood, in an extraordinary study. George Field and Winnie Greenwood are engaged to be married. She becomes infatuated with Ed Coxen and gives Roy back his ring. Months later a physician tells that the girl was a patient in an Eastern hospital where a baby had been born to her. The third and fourth is a Keystone comedy in two parts entitled "The Battle of Ambrose and Walrus", a side-splitting parody on the military life.

At the Exhibit

night is based on the life of General Villa prior to his brilliant success as a rebel general in Mexico. The picture is entitled "An Outlaw's Revenge" or "The Dawn of a New Republic." It is a four reel picture fraught with thrilling scenes actual battles and many sensational moments.

Monday Betty Nansen, the sensation of Europe will appear in the snappy picture "The Celebrated Scandal." She will be supported by Edward Jose, Stuart Holmes, Walter Hitchcock, Wilma Merkle.

At the Majestic

There is a big dramatic feature taken from a race track that is being offered at the Majestic theatre tonight. "In the Stretch" is a four act feature that is abundant with exciting moments tense situations dramatic scenes and is a real live up to the minute picture that will make you grip your seats for dear life.

It is a famous jockey story with a pretty love plot running all the way through.

Lesson XIII.—Third Quarter, For Sept. 26, 1915

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Ps. lxxii, Quarterly Review—Golden Text, Ps. xvi, 1. Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

LESSON I.—Absalom's failure, II Sam. xviii, 1-15. Golden Text, Eph. vi, 1. "Children, obey your parents in the Lord, for this is right." Absalom failed in respect for his father or his father's God, and he failed to accomplish what he had his heart set upon for himself. The victory was David's, and he was restored to his throne. See Ps. xlviii, 10, 11, concerning the counsel of the Lord and that of his enemies.

LESSON II.—Solomon anointed king, I Kings i, 28-40. Golden Text, I Chron. xxviii, 9. "Know thou the God of thy father and serve Him with a perfect heart and with a willing mind." It was the purpose of the Lord that of all the sons of David Solomon should be his successor, and so it came to pass, for every purpose of the Lord shall be performed (Jer. i, 29).

LESSON III.—Solomon chooses wisdom, I Kings iii, 1-15. Golden Text, Prov. ix, 10. "The fear of Jehovah is the beginning of wisdom." Solomon began well, loving the Lord and walking in the statutes of David, his father, and the Lord said to him, "What I shall give thee." Solomon's request pleased the Lord, and He gave him wisdom and also riches and honor. It was an exceeding abundance like Eph. iii, 20. The Lord Jesus in the wisdom and power of God.

LESSON IV.—Solomon dedicates the temple, I Kings viii, 22-30. Golden Text, Isa. lvi, 7. "My house shall be called a house of prayer for all people." The tabernacle and temple were both typical of Christ, the True Tabernacle and Temple, and of the church, which is His body, now being builded. Each believer is also a temple and is expected to be wholly dedicated to God that the world may know Him (John xvi, 23).

LESSON V.—The queen of Sheba visits Solomon, I Kings x, 1-13. Golden Text, Prov. viii, 11. "Wisdom is better than rubies." Not only the queen of Sheba, but all the earth sought to Solomon to hear his wisdom which God had put in his heart, and they all brought gifts of silver, gold, garments, horses, spices, etc., foreshadowing the time when all nations shall bring their wealth to Israel because of the name of the Lord who will then be their King (Isa. ix, 24; Isa. lx, 3, 5, 11, 23).

LESSON VI.—The kingdom torn asunder, I Kings xii, 6-11. Golden Text, Prov. xvi, 18. "Pride goeth before destruction and a haughty spirit before a fall." Because of Solomon's sin in turning from the Lord to idols, although He had appeared to him twice and kindly warned him, he said that He would take the kingdom from him. David's sake (1 Ki. i, 21).

LESSON VII.—Jeroboam leads Israel into sin, I Kings xii, 25-33. Golden Text, Ex. xx, 4, 5. "Thou shalt not bow down thyself unto them nor serve them." Jeroboam turned away from God, who gave him the kingdom, and led all Israel into idolatry, so that there was not one king over the ten tribes who was not an idolater.

LESSON VIII.—Asa's good reign, II Chron. xv, 1-15. Golden Text, Jas. iv, 8. "Draw nigh to God, and He will draw nigh to you." In contrast to Jeroboam and the sinful kings of Israel there were at least eight of the kings of Judah who served the Lord and sought to do right in His sight. Asa was one of them, and for thirty-five years he was wonderfully blessed, because he relied on the Lord, but during the last five of his forty years he turned away from God to a measure.

LESSON IX.—God's care of Elijah, I Kings xvii, 1-16. Golden Text, I Pet. v, 7. "Cast all your anxiety upon Him, because He careth for you." A man of God, jealous for the honor of Jehovah is able to cause no rain for over three years and then to bring rain, yet he was a man like others. He was supernaturally cared for during those years and safely hidden, so that he could not be found.

LESSON X.—Elijah and the prophets of Baal, I Kings xviii, 30-39. Golden Text, Prov. ix, 23. "Jehovah is far from the wicked; but He heareth the prayer of the righteous." A great test and a glorious vindication of Jehovah. From morning till evening the wicked cry to their god without a reply. Elijah prayed one brief prayer and the fire came that could burn up even stones.

hear the members discussing plans for the building up of the organizations. The choir and male chorus seem to sing better and there is considerable activity along all lines. The school tomorrow will make a final effort to clean up on all pledges made for the sustenance of a missionary and his family in far off Japan. The Bible school has, through the subscription of $600, become a living link in the missionary field and practically all of the necessary money has been arranged for. This has been made possible through the untiring efforts of the pastor, Rev. Charles R. Oakley, who has done wonders since assuming charge of his work here. He has placed before the membership the possibility of doing big things and the members have responded willingly.

It is quite likely at Sunday school tomorrow replies will have been made to the challenges sent to the Christian Bible school at New Boston, Seiotoville, Grandview Avenue, Fullerton and South Portsmouth for an attendance contest. It is hoped for the good of all schools that the challenges will be accepted, and that the contest will start at once. The local school has assumed a big handicap and may be in for a trimming, but the members are willing to take a chance and propose to put up quite a battle. Anyhow, they will never admit to a licking until the last note is counted.

Rev. Oakley will have two strong sermons to deliver tomorrow. In the morning his subject will be "Salt," and take it from this end of the line that there is a great chance that the members will have something to remember after hearing the sermon. There are great possibilities in that subject, for salt having once lost its savor is only fit to be trodden under the foot of man. It's pretty easy to get the drift, isn't it. In the evening his subject will be "Religion of the Bible." You are always welcome at any and all services at the First Christian.

seventy men present. The banquet will be the first of a series of pleasurable events planned for the fall work, and the members are going about the affair with so much enthusiasm that they firmly believe the class attendance will be more than doubled by the first of the year.

The banquet on next Friday will be in the nature of a reception to the new pastor Rev. Geo. P. Horst, the success of whose ministry is already assured. The program is a splendid one and is anxiously awaited by the members and friends. Admission to the banquet will be by invitation and it is hoped to have upwards of

Is one church just as good as another? Some, in fact a great many, say yes! And the funny thing about these folks is that they think so highly about all the churches that they never, or rarely ever, go to any of them. Others, either directly or by implication, say no! Any how the subject is well worth discussion, is it not?

Rev. Horst Receives Another Degree; Has Distinct Honor

When the trustees of Washington college, Tennessee, on Sept. 14, conferred on Rev. George P. Horst, new minister of the Second Presbyterian church, the degree of Doctor of Divinity, it is quite probable that the new minister had the honor of having more degrees conferred upon him than any minister of his age in the country.

When Rev. Horst completed the required course at Alma University, Mich., in 1908, he received the degree of Bachelor of Science, also advised with Council Lee Hartence. The degree of Master of Arts was conferred on him at Princeton University in 1911. So if Rev. Horst cared to be is entitled to sign his name Rev. Geo. P. Horst, B. S., M. A., D. D.

Rev. Horst, it has been learned, is quite an athlete in addition to being an eloquent pulpit orator. He was a member of the Princeton football team, and has distinguished himself several times on the gridiron. He takes quite an interest in football and has watched the members of the P. H. S. practice several times. He has also advised with Coach Lee Hartence. The degree of Master of Arts was conferred on him at Princeton University in 1911. So if Rev. Special Addresses At All Saints Ch.

Is one church just as good as another? Some, in fact a great many, say yes! And the funny thing about these folks is that they think so highly about all the churches that they never, or rarely ever, go to any of them. Others, either directly or by implication, say no! Any how the subject is well worth discussion, is it not?

The rector of All Saints' church evidently thinks so for he will answer the question at the evening service tomorrow.

Rector Powell is delivering a series of addresses on much debated questions at the evening free.

The Brotherhood

The attendance at the Brotherhood Bible Class for men was better last Sunday than it has yet been this fall, but there is still room for improvement. There would seem to be no excuse for the continued absence of some of our members, and it is to be hoped that those who have not yet put in an appearance since the re-opening of the class, will make reparation for their sins by getting out of bed in time to be present at tomorrow morning's sessions. The prodigals are hereby assured that if they will come to the rector's office, next door to All Saints' church on Fourth street at 9:00 a. m. tomorrow, "all will be forgotten and forgiven!" Oh, yes! the Brotherhood is quite different from the average kind of class you have known and if you have failed to be happy in other classes we beg to say "you have tried others, now try us."

EX-NEW BOSTON OFFICIAL BADLY BEATEN UP; ACCUSES THREE MEN

Ed McKinley, a well-known Portsmouth young man and former deputy marshal of New Boston, was waylaid and badly beaten up by a trio from that village, while on his way home Friday night, according to a story told today by McKinley.

McKinley had been at New Boston, and while there met Mart Dixon and C. E. ("Pete") Wintersole, two bartenders employed at Hans & York's saloon, and became involved in an argument with them, he said. The argument took place at another saloon, but nothing serious came of it at the time, and the incident was considered dropped, when McKinley boarded a street car for home. He claims that he was unaware that the other two and a companion, whom he did not know, were on the same car. Just as he prepared to alight from the car at Ninth and Gay streets he was shoved off the platform and the three attacked him, he says. He tried to get away from them and started through Tracy park on the way to his home on Tenth street near Chillicothe street, but they sprang upon him again, he says, knocking him down and beating him unmercifully. While lying prostrate on the ground they were also said to have kicked and trampled him.

Pedestrians assisted him to his home and Dr. J. E. Rogers was called to attend him. His face and head were a mass of cuts and bruises. There was a bad cut over the eye, another on the lip, one on the tongue and several on the head. He also complained of severe pains in the side, and it was first thought that several of his ribs were broken. One of the blows was directly over a silver plate that he has had in his head ever since meeting with a bad accident some years ago, and this was causing him particular pain. He was still bedfast and suffering greatly Saturday morning.

McKinley's assailants made a safe get-away, and although police scoured the city they were unable to locate them. The New Boston authorities were notified that warrants were out for their arrest. They were located by telephone Saturday morning and ordered into police court, but failed to appear when court convened and officers were dispatched to New Boston to bring them in.

Dixon created a disturbance at a North Chillicothe street saloon a few weeks ago and was taken into custody by Officer Frank Millhoff, but as the saloon man did not care to prosecute him, was permitted to go his way.

When Dixon and Wintersole arrived at headquarters they were put under bonds of $50 each for their appearance in court Monday morning. Charges were preferred against them by Harry Cooper, who said McKinley's wife is his cousin.

Believe Third Member Of Gang Is Caught In Arrest Of Hicks

The police believe that in Jas. Hicks, aged 15 years, of 1223 Fifteenth street, whom Officer Bob Lantierback arrested Friday night, they have a youthful confederate of George Raymer and Melvin Jenkins, the most notorious petty thieves in the city.

Lantierback encountered young Hicks in the East End carrying a gunny sack filled with what he claimed was rags but when examined was found to contain a couple of good blankets, girls' dresses of good material, men and boys' underwear and other articles that appeared to have formed a big family washing, just stripped from some clothes line.

The youth claimed the outfit had been given to him by his cousin, Russell Hicks, of New Eighth street, saying that Russell had the sack in his barn. He said Russell gave the supply to him and he expected to sell it. Asked why he did not make the transfer during the day time instead of at night he claimed he was unable to leave home because his grandfather was very ill.

For Squeaky Boots.
The disagreeable noise of squeaky boots may be stopped by having the shoemaker spring them on each side and insert between the sole a teaspoonful of French chalk or drive into the sole a few pegs. This process costs only a trifle and answers admirably.

When closely questioned the boys made some conflicting statements and police later learned from the cousin that he had not given the clothes to the boy as claimed by him. The boy, because of his youthful age, was permitted to go home for the balance of the night with orders to appear in court Saturday morning.

Hicks failed to keep his word to report Saturday morning and when an officer visited his home found he had decamped. He will be arrested on sight.

MAYOR DAVIS WRITES ABOUT HOSE EPISODE

To the Editor of the Times:

Please allow me space in your most valuable paper to make a statement concerning the turmoil that is claimed to have happened at the mayor's office in this village and by the mayor on Tuesday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson were put off a street car in front of the Popular theatre and I gave them the privilege to solicit funds after their stating to me that they wanted to go to West Virginia and had no money to pay their way. After getting some money they got whiskey and began to drink. While the woman was begging the man was going from one saloon to another buying whiskey. They became so drunk they could hardly stand and some kind friend escorted them to the mayor's office.

I went to the office about 4:30 p. m. and found them in a drunken condition. The woman, being the soberest of the two at once demanded to be taken care of for the night. I told her that we had no place to keep her and she at once began to swear and abuse me shamefully. Then I told her to leave the office along with her better half. At this time they both began to swear and use such language that I never heard fall from human lips before and I believe I have heard some horrible talk in my time from parties similar to these but never hardly as bad as they used.

Now it has been stated by some of those who are passing the petition that I pushed them out of the door. When in fact I was not near them. The marshal took them by their arms and led them out the door and told them to beat it. They at once began to yell murder and everything else they could think of and at this time there were about a dozen little girls standing on the sidewalk.

And I never before heard such profanity as was used by these two creatures it was then I told them to move on or I would turn the hose on them. Now friends, fathers, mothers and enemies as well as you who believe in decency just stop and think for one moment. I may have done wrong when I did squirt a little water in the man's face. I did not turn water on the woman. I will leave that for you to judge for yourselves, and if according to your judgment and decency you say I did wrong or was hasty, ask you to accept my apologies.

Now to the point. Why did we not want them there. First, we had no place to keep a woman, and secondly we had them about ten days ago and we could get rid of them only by the marshal escorting them out of the village. Now if you want to make any inquiries about these people ask the mate on the boat that runs between Portsmouth and Rome. Wm. Cottle and his wife, Henry Huns or L. D. York. Now why is this accusation being made just because a man got his face washed? Did you never hear there is a man who was to attain to the office of mayor who has been running ever since he had a chance until the last time and now he is running twice?

Now, dear friends, if I have betrayed the trust that you have trusted me with I want you to say so and if I have not, according to your good judgment, I want you to still help to hold my hands up, as long as I stand for law and order. And I say to you that I have tried to, in my weak way without much help, make your village better.

And I assure you I will continue to do as I have done so long as I remain on the job. One thing I want you to remember and that is that I am not perfect and therefore am liable to make mistakes. I bid you God's speed in whatever you think right and remain yours.

SYNOPSIS.

Professor Sutter, psychologist, and Gordon Barclay, millionaire, plan to preach to the world the gospel of efficiency through the youth and beauty of a woman who shall believe that she is a heavenly messenger. They kidnap the orphaned little Ambrosia and place her in the care of a woman, to be molded to their plan as she grows up.

At the age of fifteen, Ambrosia is adopted by Barclay, but loses his heirship and control of the family fortune to her mother, who is a devotee of the cult of efficiency. Barclay, who is a devotee of the cult of efficiency, is a devotee of the cult of efficiency.

Barclay, who is a devotee of the cult of efficiency, is a devotee of the cult of efficiency. Barclay, who is a devotee of the cult of efficiency, is a devotee of the cult of efficiency.

FIFTEENTH INSTALLMENT

Gordon Barclay's servants had orders to admit no one without orders. The city was in a turmoil. With each fresh edition of the newspapers the situation of the conspirators became more serious. In the public parks charged of them were hanged or beheaded. It became necessary to keep a cordon of police about Barclay's house. In Semmes' house and Sturtevant's no windows remained whole. For twenty hours these two men had been Barclay's guests.

Gunsdorf's great hour had come. That hour for which he had plotted all his life, and for which he had risked his life. He had been the leading figure in the mob that had tried to lynch the triumvirate in the first burst of rage. And he found himself suddenly at the head of all the lawless elements in the city. He was drunk with power and a sense of his own importance. But openly he spoke of his love for mankind.

Through a man friendly to him and deep in Gunsdorf's councils, Tommy learned that the life of the man who had adopted him and been good to him was in danger. His house was to be stormed over the heads of the police, and himself hanged or torn to pieces, as might happen.

All their differences fled from Tommy's mind, and he remembered only their mutual affection; so he hurried to the old familiar home and was presently admitted.

"It's just to say a few words," said Tommy, and he told Barclay what Gunsdorf was planning for that very day.

"Well, go to Gull Island," Barclay said simply. "All this thing has blown over. I suppose you are not unhappy about what has happened. It's a pity she came back. . . . Tommy, when we quarreled I was ambitious for power only. Later I began to think that Celestia was a real panacea for a sick world. So that if I had been destined to rule, I would have ruled for the good of the people. I want you to know that what began in cynicism ended in faith and honesty. I have put you back in my will for practically everything I possess. Carlton Fitch has turned knave. Mary, if she marries him, will be worthy of him."

"You'll need somebody to keep house for you at Gull Island," said Tommy. He was too moved to refer to what he had just learned. "I'll get Celestia there as quickly as I can."

"Have you married her?"

Tommy looked very manly when he said that he had. And Barclay smiled one of his old-time dazzling smiles.

"And I think," he said finally, "that you had better get out of this house as quickly as you can. I'm going, too. I can't afford to be a hero."

They shook hands and parted, never to meet in this life again.

Late that night Tommy and Celestia and Freddie the Ferret, whom Tommy was trying to train to be his valet, caught the last boat for Bartlett's Island, from which Gull's Island can be reached in an hour in a fast launch. They had had no word of what had happened in New York.

Tommy, without arousing suspicion, could not find out if Barclay, Semmes and Sturtevant had gone on ahead, or if they were following.

"If they are behind us," he said to Celestia, "they'll have to charter something. Perhaps father will come all the way by boat—that would be best. His own yacht would be spotted. But tell me something."

Gull Island resembles a boat of black that has risen too much. A rounded, billowing top is set upon high, almost perpendicular sides. In this island retreat, open and

Rye, Portchester, the car flew. And like grim death, his purpose never swerving, Gunsdorf clung to the spare tire. His feet were worthy of a better. Vengeance is no man's. "Vengeance is mine, saith the Lord."

The old fishing town of Giddings was dark as sin. The fishermen, conferring, had determined to make this, rather than Miasquid, their point of departure. They would be late to catch the last boat for Bartlett's Island. Giddings, with Miasquid, formed the base of a triangle, of which Gull Island was the apex. Therefore, if they could here charter some craft to convey them to the island, there would be a great saving of time.

The car ran half way through the little town, turned a right angle, and descended to the wharves, and here, in the darkness, stopped. Gunsdorf was the first to alight. He slipped into the shelter of a shed that smelled of fish and dung himself to the ground.

Why didn't he shoot down the fishermen as they alighted from the car? His hands were so cramped from gripping the tires he could not have held or pointed a gun; they were shaking like leaves of poplar trees in a wind. He was in acute physical pain.

But, lying on the ground, writhing with exhaustion, he began to recover little by little from the ordeal through which he had passed, and he was able to keep an eye on the car and on the shadowy men whom he hated, and to listen to what they had to say to each other and to the fishermen whom they routed from his bed, and who finally, for a prodigious sum of money, consented to venture out in the easterly storm that was brewing and carry them and their luggage to Gull Island.

The name of his little schooner was the Mary Nye. She was at the end of the long wharf, half unloaded. No, he had given up fishing. There was more money in coasting. They could start at once; he would have to get his crew together—two men and a boy. Had they really come all the way from New York? They must be hard set. Better come to the house. He'd rout the misses out of bed, and she'd give them coffee.

Barclay gave some orders to his driver, and much money; also he gave much money to the other man on the box, and he shook hands with them both and thanked them for their devotion to him, and told them that their future would be his care.

Then the car went one way, and the fishermen and the fishermen went another, and presently Gunsdorf dozed half over like a man crippled with rheumatism, rose from his hiding place, and hobbled off in his third.

The Mary Nye lay in the lee of the long wharf near the end. He was a dirty little ship. Amidship was a hold, formerly used as a container for codfish; it still smelled of them. The hatchway giving access to this hold was open, and into it Gunsdorf descended. It seemed to him, after exploring the schooner from stern to stem, to offer the best means of concealment. This little cabin aft was cleaner. It would be the choice of the triumvirate for their own quarters.

Gunsdorf was half crazy with fatigue. In a far corner of the hold he found a pile of sacks and flung himself down on them. But there was something hard among them that hurt him. He groped for this, and found that it was a powerful two-handed auger, fixed with an inch and a half bit.

He pushed it to one side and in a moment was sound asleep.

Barclay was restless; the cabin was stuffy and verminous; he preferred the deck and the open air. So it happened that in passing the main hatch, in a lull of the wind, he heard a sound of a man snoring. He had left Semmes and Sturtevant complaining of the discomforts of the cabin. Captain Nye was at the wheel, the two men and the boy forward.

"Here," thought Barclay, "we've got a stowaway aboard. Some poor son-of-a-gun of a wharf rat, I suppose."

He stroked aft.

"There's someone asleep in the main hold," he said.

"The hell there is!"

"You can hear him snoring if you listen in the hatchway."

"Well, let him snore."

Gradually it dawned upon Barclay

Mary Nye till she went down? She carried a boat for just such an emergency. But he, Gunsdorf, while the others rowed manfully off, would be left in the dark.

In the first moment of reasoning it did not occur to him that the ship was on fire. Rather he thought that the smoke was some devilish device of the triumvirate to asphyxiate him.

From the eastern cliffs, which received the onslaught of the open sea, Tommy and Celestia walked to those lower western cliffs whose feet were washed by the less strenuous waters which flow between Gull Island and the mainland, and here, sheltered from the wind, they seated themselves, ostensibly to admire the view, but really to admire each other.

The view consisted of gray water, a vast expanse of it, in commotion, and of a vast expanse of small gray sky; and, many miles distant, a small schooner beating slowly up to the island.

"They must be cooking a bonny breakfast," said Tommy, "judging from the smoke."

"Judging by the smoke," said Celestia, "they've got more than one stove."

"By George you are right!" said Tommy. Then, a moment later, with excitement: "She's on fire. That's why the devils are waving outboard. They are waiting till the last moment to get into the lee of the island. It must be pretty rough out there for a skiff. They're not making much headway, though. She looks very low in the water. Probably leaks like a sieve, and the fire keeps them from getting to the pumps."

"Can't we do anything to help?"

"Not unless the launch has come back from Bartlett's. She went over early for newspapers and supplies. Let's go see."

So they raced off to the landing. The launch had not yet returned, and there was neither sight nor sound of her. A catboat without even a mast was drawn up on ways, and the only other craft at the landing was a flat-bottomed skiff, so low in the water that she could not have lived in the rough water outside of the harbor.

"We can't do any good," said Tommy with a great deal of regret in his voice. Let's hurry back and see the end of it."

They stopped at the house for field glasses, of which there were several in a drawer of the hall table, and hurried back to the western cliffs.

In his explorations of the night before Gunsdorf had noted the sacks of lime raised from the floor of the hold to keep them from any chance water. And it dawned upon him it was his own fault that they had got wet, and generated enough heat to set the ship on fire.

Captain Nye had kept his courage up, and held grimly to the task of trying to make head against the fire and against the water rising in the hold.

Through what remained of the night, and through all the long, anxious morning, he and his two men, aided by Barclay, Semmes and Sturtevant, had fought like heroes against the fire and water.

It was discouraging to have to cart into the burning after-noon so much of the water that they blistersed their hands pumping it out of it. At one time it looked as if they were going to get the fire under control. In that event they could have kept the vessel afloat indefinitely.

Captain Nye had suggested bringing Gunsdorf on deck and putting him to work, and the effort had been made. The man was disarmed as he came up, wet to the knees and choking with smoke. But at the sight of Barclay all his hate returned. He would not work; they couldn't make him.

"Why, the hell should I?" said he, "when I took the trouble to bore the holes that are sinking her and to start the fire that's burning her?"

All regarded the man with a horror that was akin to awe. Anger succeeded this.

"Is that the truth?" asked Captain Nye?

"Yes."

Captain Nye motioned to his two men. They seized Gunsdorf, and after a short struggle cast him back into his prison and battered down the hatch.

"There's no room for him in the small boat," said Captain Nye; "and there's no more mischief he can do down below."

It was only the fatigue of those who were trying to save her that eventually settled the fate of the Mary Nye. Her captain called the party together.

"Thanks, all hands," he said, "you've done all men could do. We'll need what strength we've got left to get us ashore. So let her burn."

The boy, who had been at the wheel ever since the discovery of the fire, was relieved by Captain Nye. The boy promptly lay down on the deck, and the others followed suit, resting themselves against the time of embarking in the small boat.

At last the moment came when Captain Nye thought best to abandon his ship. His eyes filled with tears.

"Don't grieve, captain," said Barclay; "I'll pay you your value five times over. You're a good man."

As they were about to step into the boat that bumped alongside, but little below the level of the sinking deck, Barclay said curtly: "I can't leave Gunsdorf to die like that."

He himself unfastened the hatch. Gunsdorf had climbed up the ladder to keep out of water as long as possible. He was more dead than alive. They had to lift him into the boat. He rode very low in the water and face, were never seen again by mortal eyes. The boy swam to the boat and climbed up on it, with Barclay's help.

Then for the first time Barclay saw the agonized face of Gunsdorf. The man's grip was failing, and he knew it. At a little distance Captain Nye floated back down. His two men came to the surface, came together, clinched and died, each trying to use the other as a ladder by which to climb out of the water.

Barclay looked for a while coldly into Gunsdorf's face, and then looked away.

"For God's sake help me!" Barclay's expression did not change. He did not look at Gunsdorf.

"For Christ's sake!"

Then the little boy, his teeth chattering, said:

"Tain't pretty to see men drown," and began to blubber.

With an oath Barclay reached for Gunsdorf and tried to draw him out of the water. It was a difficult and precarious operation.

"Steady! Don't get rattled!" said Barclay. "You, boy, steady her as much as you can."

And Barclay worked with all his strength to save the wretched man's life.

There was a struggle long in Gunsdorf's face. It was no longer hatred. There was hope in it; but, more than that, there was something that was akin to love. A miracle had been wrought in the evil man's heart.

Barclay tried to save him!

"You're a good man," he said. "I thought you were the devil."

"My man," said Barclay, "I can't get you up here. I'm sorry. My strength is petered out. If it's any comfort to you, I forgive you for what you have done. I've done plenty of evil, too. I guess we both thought we were trying to do good. We looked at life from different angles. You didn't believe that men like me were human beings; I had the same feeling about men like you. I guess that's mostly what's the matter with this world, anyway."

Holding tightly to Gunsdorf's hand, he still managed to keep the anchor's head out of water.

All this Tommy and Celestia saw from the top of the cliffs. They had recognized the two chief actors in the drama, and Tommy's suspense over the fate of the man who had been good to him was awful to see. It was that white, quiet suspense that transcends all outcry and lamentation.

"Gunsdorf," said Barclay, "I'm slipping; I can't hold you any longer. I'm sorry."

"All right," said Gunsdorf. And he let go of Barclay's hand and sank like a stone.

"My God!" exclaimed Barclay. "What sand!"

The moment Gunsdorf's head reappeared Barclay slipped quietly into the water and tried to save him. But Gunsdorf had gone down upon his back. He was too confused to understand the calm, steady command of Barclay—to keep his head—to keep still.

He tried to climb upon his would-be savior, and they went down together. Then Barclay's presence of mind left him, and he, too, was gripped.

And so they died—in each other's arms.

The little boy, his teeth chattering, pushed on the inverted boat, blubbering bitterly.

On the cliff of Gull Island the girl from heaven was trying to console one of the richest men in the world. (THE END.)

Will The Kaiser Suffer the fate of Napoleon?

No, is the Universal Answer to This Important Question, for Conditions in Russia Have Undergone Remarkable Changes Since 1812, When Napoleon's 400,000 Men Were Reduced to 12,000

BY WILSON VAN ORSDELL

During the last three or four months of the European war all eyes have been centered on the German leaders who are rushing their tens of thousands of trained soldiers through Russia. Apparently there is no stopping these armies.

Many military skeptics have asked each other this question: "Does not the Kaiser fear he will be given a taste of Napoleon's experience in Russia, when this famous leader penetrated the Czar's empire much the same as Von Hindenburg and Von Mackensen have done, only to be driven back with the remnants of an army that had been 400,000 strong?"

Repetition of Napoleon's Experience Near Impossible

The answer should be easy, even for the radically pro-Russian readers of war news, for a repetition of Napoleon's experience is well-nigh impossible under present conditions. The German invasion has been likened unto Napoleon's campaign in Russia, 'tis true, but at the same time it cannot be correctly compared with conditions in 1812.

In the summer of that memorable year, Napoleon triumphantly entered Russia at the head of about 400,000 men. The same winter of that year Napoleon left Moscow with an army of just a trifle more than 100,000 men. Shortly after that he was forced to begin his famous retreat, at the end of which he had with him a scant remnant of this wonderful army, the total survivors of the retreat being slightly over 12,000 soldiers. This disastrous invasion was the beginning of his end.

Despite the fact that he had overwhelmingly defeated the forces of the Czar whenever they ventured to give battle, the Czar's endless resources in men, the excessively cold Russian winters, and the immense lengths of Napoleon's lines of communication were what defeated the greatest French general the world has ever produced. He was defeated even before he started on his campaign, if he had but known it.

Conditions Have Improved Since Napoleon's Invasion

"Why is it impossible for the Kaiser's generals to suffer what Napoleon did?" the skeptics may ask, as the beginning of winter in Russia is heralded.

The question is easily answered. Although very little has leaked into the outside world, during the past century, since Napoleon's retreat, Russia has advanced almost as much as any other European country.

In 1812 Napoleon had no railways to rush his troops over. The roads he was forced to traverse were for miles and miles impassable and made more so by the unusually severe winter weather. Thousands of his men perished in the snows, thousands more died of thirst and starvation, owing to the fact that it was well-nigh impossible for Napoleon to have provisions dispatched to his men.

Military experts for the past century have been dwelling on that one point—that Napoleon should have looked ahead more than he did; military critics have put that down as the one mistake that led to his Waterloo.

Napoleon in his army of 400,000 had the bravest men in France. Their individual bravery has been talked of for a century; it will live centuries after the present war is over. But Napoleon's 400,000 men lacked discipline and efficiency.

Kaiser Has Fast Railroads, Napoleon Had All Mud Roads

The salient factors in the present German campaign as compared with Napoleon's Russian defeat, are:

Modern Prussian discipline and efficiency as compared with old-time French individual brilliancy and bravery.

Fast railroads against impassable dirt roads—speed against slowness.

A motorized army as compared with animal power.

Well-equipped hospital facilities as compared with practically nothing in this line.

In short, this is a truthful summing up of the modern German invasion of Russia in comparison with the invasion of the Czar's domains by the powerful and brave army of Napoleon, just a trifle more than a century ago.

The principal reason the Kaiser's able general, Von Hindenburg, and Emperor Francis Joseph's able leader, Von Mackensen, will never suffer what Napoleon did, no matter how far they penetrate Russia, and no matter how cold the coming winter might be, is—

That the Kaiser and his staff, when they planned the invasion of Russia, looked ahead. In those few words the success of the German invasion is summed up. They looked ahead, and they know just what they were going to do before the advance guards of the Teuton forces crossed the Polish frontier. The Germans, in planning their campaign, paid no attention to what Napoleon had done. These war leaders realized that conditions had changed, in fact had been entirely reversed, and that owing to improved means of communication by rail and motor transport, and by water, that everything was in favor of a free invading Russia, and worked hard against a retreat into the interior by the Russian forces.

Germans Get Fresh Water and Three Meals Each Day

General Von Buelow, who led the famous German "Blans" through their drive near Riga, remarked some time ago, "Under the present strategy of the Russians is the same that proved so effective against Napoleon."

"Such strategy was effective then," he continued, "but not now when means of communication have been so much improved. The lineal which our soldiers eat today in Windau was baked yesterday in Breslau. In times when a railway is being built a mile behind the advancing forces, when thousands of motor transports are also behind us, when asphalt roads prove as if they are coming out of the earth, no such strategy is effective."

"We drink German mineral water and eat fresh meat, direct from Berlin, and can build a road, if necessary, fifty miles long in two days. It is therefore nonsense to speak of the lack of the strategy used against Napoleon, or of the cunning exercised by this famous general."

Before the German invasion of Russia an actual started, colonial arrangements were made to supply the armies. These arrangements caused a sensation in the towns evacuated by the Russians. Hundreds

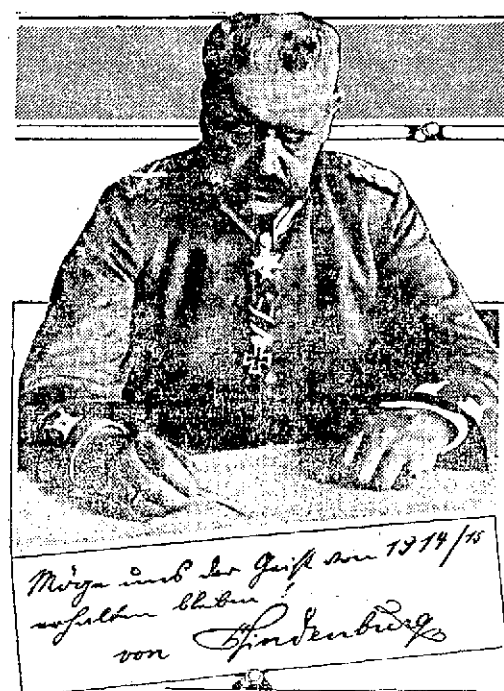

WILHELM II

THE RUSSIAN WINTER DEAD- LIER THAN RUSSIAN BULLETS

NAPOLEON.

New picture of Field Marshal von Hindenburg and his autograph. As the Russians are pushed further back into the interior of their own country the popularity of Field Marshal von Hindenburg grows apace in Germany. "May the Spirit of 1914-15 remain with us—Von Hindenburg" is the translation of the autograph inscription beneath this new portrait.

In 1812

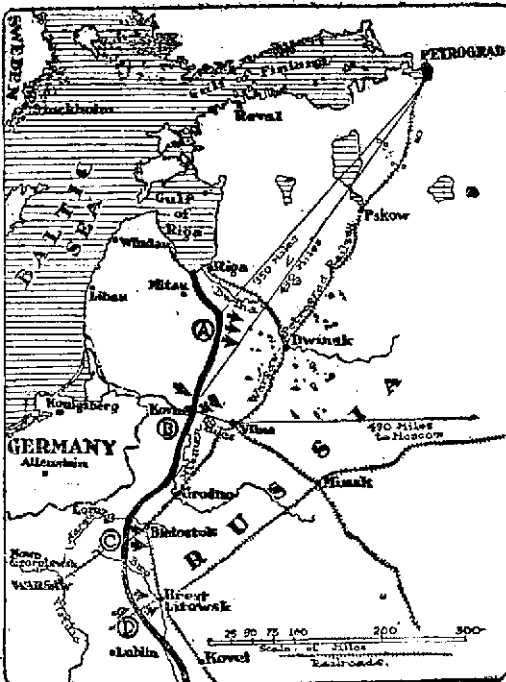

The Russian army totaled 400,000 men. Napoleon had an army numbering 420,000 men. The features of the campaign was the individual brilliancy of the French. There were no railroads. The lines of communication were generally over impassable roads or through swamps and forests. During the campaign thousands of Napoleon's soldiers died from the effects of drinking impure water. Thousands of them also died of starvation. Supplies were then transported by horses, thousands of which died weekly. The object of Napoleon's campaign was a brilliant advance for political ends without a strategic basis.

of thousands of troops, which were lying between the Vistula and the Bug rivers, were being fed as well as if they were in their homes in Germany. Almost every German soldier who was able to eat received three hot meals a day, and millions and millions of bottles of fresh mineral water were distributed among them daily. Railroads were speedily opened behind the Germans and Austrians, thereby solving the problem of restoring facilities for forwarding troops, munitions and provisions by rail.

Thousands of Napoleon's Men Died of Starvation

A century ago Napoleon and his French men were forced to depend on their horses. During the campaign, in winter of his campaign, the snow fell continuously. Provision trains were stalled, the horses that were bringing food to starving soldiers perished, these soldiers live on sometimes one scant cold meal a day, they were forced to drink stagnant water and they died by the thousands.

Then, the Russian generals were forced back, but historians have also pointed out that they entirely advanced themselves to be forced back for the purpose of setting Napoleon and his men into the heart of cold Russia for the winter. These Russian generals knew what the Russians would do to the brilliant French soldiers. They knew that it would be impossible for them to transport provisions. They predicted the elements would kill more Frenchmen than Russian bullets. Such a prediction is not so easily refuted, for when the cold, hungry, and exhausted Napoleon and his men were forced back, they were driven from hunger and cold, and when he was driven

The enormous difficulties in the way of a German advance on Petrograd are clearly shown by the map. From the nearest point to the Russian capital yet reached by the Germans the distance is more than 350 miles, and nearly all the way the land is a vast marsh, interspersed with small and large lakes and rivers, and there is only one easily destroyed railroad. The objective of the Germans in the future, as in the past, is likely to be the Russian field army, which still refuses to be cornered and still retreats into the interior.

The Russian army totaled 2,500,000. Von Hindenburg's forces totaled 2,500,000. The feature of the present campaign has been German discipline and efficiency. There are in Russia thousands of miles of good railroads—others can be built at a rate of twenty-five miles per day. Asphalt roads are being built as fast as the army advances. The soldiers of Germany are supplied with fresh mineral water in bottles daily. The German soldiers also have fresh bread and three meals daily. Supplies for the Germans are transported from trunk lines to autos. The German military campaign is for military purposes only, and is based on sound strategic principles.

from Russian soil, but 12,000 of the brave 400,000 soldiers remained. During the present German invasion the soldiers serving the Kaiser have been receiving supplies regularly, notwithstanding the fact that the Russians removed all supplies and set fire to the villages and fields before they retreated. This was Russian strategy—much of the same kind that defeated Napoleon, but the advancing Germans were well prepared to meet and overcome this strategy—and they have.

During Napoleon's advance the Russians drove the peasants from the fields, set fire to the crops and destroyed everything as they retreated. Napoleon's men came and found waste and desolation, no food and no prospects of food, unless their belated provision trains arrived. These provision trains were lying banded up in snowdrifts, the men and horses manning them were stiff in death, and Napoleon's men went without food and drink for days, and finally died.

Germans Find Desolation, But They're Prepared For It

The Germans also found desolation and waste, but speedy provision trains and motors were following them on their triumphant invasion, and when they found time to stop fighting to eat, they had but to go to the camp kitchen and receive hot food and good water.

The Germans realized that once they got into Russia they would have to face the proposition of feeding not 400,000 men, but from Moscow to Krasnodar. So they established provision depots, and they also placed their advances at the great Russian provision depots, Petrograd, Moscow, Kiev and Kharkov. Operations of the Russian armies north of the province of Volhynia are so intimately based on Petrograd and Moscow; those from Volhynia and south of this province are based on Kiev and Kharkov. If the Russian armies in the field can be cut off from any or all of these food depots, they have no chance and face either starvation or surrender.

In the meantime, despite the fact that in their advance the Germans are drawing away from their provision centers—Koenigsberg, Thorn, Posen, Breslau, Cracow and Lemberg—will find plenty of subordinate food centers. For there are good roads in Russia now, and if there are not, the Germans will build them as fast as they advance.

The plan to follow up a Russian retreat can therefore be carried out on a basis entirely different from that of 1812, and before all, unlike the French emperor's adventure, it has a certain and definite aim—the severance of the Russian armies from their only vital lines of supplies—while the campaign of Napoleon was bare of all strategic objects, merely undertaken to carry French power and glory into the capital of the only unconquered rival.

The generals who are warring the Kaiser's battle have worked their plan of invasion out in a business-like manner, and they are succeeding in carrying it out. The plans were all marked out on paper long before their first armies crossed the border into Russian or Galician territory.

Does Kaiser Want to Get to Petrograd This Winter?

Whether the Kaiser has instructed these generals to go on to Petrograd can only be surmised, but if the majority of the military experts of America and Europe are to be believed, if he has decided on this goal, the chances are that he will get there. True, if he gets much further into Russia, winter will strike him in one of the worst parts, but as well has he prepared for the summer that it is taken for granted that he has also well-laid plans for the winter campaign.

Other experts figure that he wants to get to Riga and remain there throughout the winter, and resume the march on Petrograd early in the spring. If he does this, he will have ample time during the winter months to further strengthen his supply centers.

Of course, the Russians will have the same chance of fortifying the cities and towns on the way to Petrograd, but even to the pro-Russian reader of the war news the fact is too plain that the German efficiency and strict discipline will win over the Russian strategy.

The German soldier looks upon this war as a matter of business, and the average German, especially those who have come to America, have made good business men, so if war is business with them, then it must be good business, or they will let it drop.

The forces under Generals Von Hindenburg and Von Mackensen have already crossed the line from which Napoleon began his invasion of Russia. And for all we know over here, they may attempt to do just what Napoleon failed to do. The question interested war readers have been asking for the past several months is, "If they attempt to do so, will they win a decisive victory, or will they be as completely overwhelmed as the famous Napoleon?"

Russia Is Banking On Generals January and February

Russia has claimed for many years that fighting on its own soil its forces are invincible. It points to the fact that summer is rapidly waning and it is a settled fact that if the Teuton invaders keep up their pace that it will bring to the front Russia's time-honored leaders, Generals January and February. And these generals are more powerful than the remainder of the Russian army together.

On the other hand, the masters of the German campaign assert that conditions today are much more improved than they were one hundred years ago, and that they are well prepared to meet and conquer these two famous generals. But can they? That is the question.

If the Germans are determined to continue their advance, where will they aim for, is another question. With command of the Baltic Sea protecting their flank, or threatening the Russians, the march on to Petrograd would seem the easiest, but they must take into consideration that the days are getting short in the northlands of Russia. There are now but nine hours of daylight during which an army can keep on the move, and as winter approaches the days get even shorter, and before long the supply of daylight will be decreased to from five to six hours, and darkness in Russia is an absolute barrier to an invading army.

On the other hand, darkness is a valuable asset to the defender. Should the Teutons decide to march on Odessa, they will not be handicapped by darkness, nor will the intense cold take its toll from the troops. And the capture of Odessa will greatly neutralize any advantage to be gained by the allied conquest of the Dardanelles and Constantinople. If Odessa is captured before the Dardanelles fall, there will remain the necessity of overcoming the Russian fleet in the Black Sea before arms can be shipped to the Turks. In the event that both Odessa and the Dardanelles fall, ammunition from France and England will have to travel the long route by Sebastopol or Taganrog.

Teutons Might Strike at Moscow Ammunition Plants

And then again, the Teuton invaders might strike at Moscow and her ammunition factories, which would either paralyze Russia's organized resistance or dividing European Russia in half, and then turn north and south to complete the conquest. But in doing so the Germans and Austrians would be exposing their flanks and risk being surrounded. Each of these plans has its advantages and disadvantages. It matters not what plan is followed, the German aim now is evidently to get possession of all the principal railroads, and then the leaders figure the rest will be easy sailing.

The average reader of war news is well acquainted with Napoleon and his invasion and retreat through Russia, so a repetition of it would be obsolete here.

The chances for the Kaiser or his generals to suffer a similar fate, if they continue their advance into Russia, are very slim. To this all military experts agree, but they are wondering just what course the Teuton invaders will pursue. They also point out that the Russians are not whipped, but are counting on the winter and its seemingly endless months of bitter weather to aid them in their battle against the invaders.

West Indians To Help John Bull

Kingston, Jamaica, Sept. 25.—Reports from Jamaica and other West Indian possessions of the British empire indicate that a sufficient number of men to form a complete regimental unit will be ready to sail for England soon, although no definite word has been given as to when the call for them will be made. Already hundreds of the pick of West Indian youths have volunteered and at their own cost and charges have found their way to England to offer themselves as recruits for Kitchener's army, and even greater numbers have enlisted in the various Canadian contingents which have gone or are going to the front.

The colonies are not in a position to equip the men; they are merely furnishing the raw materials which will be trained and armed in England. In addition to providing for a complete regiment the islands will undertake to fill the gaps caused by inevitable losses from time to time, to the extent of at least fifty percent of the original number. All the British colonies in the West Indies have voluntarily subscribed money or supplies to meet the Empire's needs—for the purchase of aeroplanes, machine guns; and for incidentals such as smoking supplies for the men in the trenches. In the case of Jamaica the government voted a sum of $250,000 which was used to send a cargo of sugar to the mother country, while by public subscription funds have been collected to the sum of $200,000 for other objects.

ENRAGED MAN SHOTS INTO CROWD BLOCKING HIS ESCAPE FROM POLICE: SEVEN ARE INJURED

Changes Made In German Navy

Berlin, Sept. 25. (By Courier to the Frontier and London, 5:05 a. m.)—Admiral von Holtzendorff, former commander of the German high seas fleet, now is head of the naval general staff succeeding Vice Admiral Behncke, vice chief of the naval general staff also is out and it is understood his successor will be Admiral von Koebe, inspector of marine instruction at the naval academy, although this appointment is unconfirmed. The changes which were made some time ago, took place in connection with the modification in the submarine policy signified by Ambassador von Bernstorff's declaration at Washington. He has, the Associated Press correspondent has good reason to believe, firmly committed the line of the submarine policy in regard to American steamers and is thoroughly convinced no more of them will be sunk.

There have been no developments in the submarine question from the German side since the dispatch to Ambassador von Bernstorff of the instructions under which he now is conducting negotiations at Washington. Should it be established, contrary to the unanimous opinion of German submarine officers, that the Arabic was acting innocently, Germany probably will not hesitate to admit that such was the case with the necessary consequences. Germany probably will offer to submit the question of reparation for American lives lost on the Lusitania as well as on the Arabic to The Hague for adjustment.

LOW BRIMMED HIGH CROWNED PLUSH HAT

The low, narrow trim which goes with the high crowned hat this season is shown in this model of hat. The design is a modification of the hat of the directors period and suggests nothing so much as the popular hat used with the riding habit. It is trimmed very simply with a band of white satin passing through a steel cut buckle.

OCTOBER 6-7-8-9

AMERICAN TROOPS MAY ENTER MEXICO

Washington, Sept. 25.—Possibility that American troops might cross the Rio Grande to deal with Mexicans raiding border counties in Texas was talked of here today as a result of yesterday's border fight between United States soldiers and Mexicans near Progreso, Texas. One American soldier was killed and an officer wounded in the battle. At least four Mexicans, perhaps more, were shot down, it was reported. The soldier was Private Henry W. Stubbelfield, of Big Stone Gap, Va., and the officer, Captain A. V. Anderson.

Legislators Return From Chattanooga

Cincinnati, Sept. 25.—Delighted with their visit to Chattanooga, Tenn., the Ohio legislators and state officials and their wives returned to Cincinnati early today for the last day of the reunion of the Eighty-First General Assembly of Ohio. That the solons appreciated the entertainment provided for them was shown by a vote of thanks to the city of Cincinnati, which was voiced by Lieut. Gov. John Arnold last night.

GREEK PARLIAMENT MAY DECLARE SIEGE

GREEKS WELCOME CHANCE FOR WAR

Athens, Sept. 25. (Via Paris)—Great relief has been caused throughout Greece by the order, calling for the mobilization of the army. The people apparently are glad to exchange the uncertainties of politics for the possibility of war. It is not thought, however, that hostilities will follow immediately, although it is generally believed in unofficial circles at least, that a struggle between Greece and Bulgaria cannot be avoided eventually. Mobilization is under way today and is proceeding quietly. The people are somewhat bewildered by the latest turn of events, not knowing whether it may lead them. King Constantine, who recently passed through a severe illness, is indisposed and his conferences with Premier Venizelos have been postponed for a day.

AUSTRALIAN WINS CROSS

Melbourne, Australia, Sept. 25.—The first Australian to win the Victoria Cross in the present war is Lance Corporal Jacka of Bendigo, in this state (Victoria). His feat was performed on the Gallipoli Peninsula. In the trench fighting in which the troops of the Commonwealth are engaged he single handed shot five Turks dead and bayoneted two others, according to the official report.

In a country where the average earning of 75 percent of the population is not more than $120 a year, and where citizens of opulence are scarce, it is declared that the island's showing has been a remarkably patriotic one.

FIRES TWO LOADS FROM SHOT GUN

Akron, Ohio, Sept. 25.—Seven were injured, none fatally, early today when Paul Harkins, 20, fired two shots from a shot gun into a crowd of men and women that were trying to hold him until the police arrived following a street brawl. One man John W. Justice, 55, is in the city hospital. The others were taken to their homes. The injured: John Justice, 55, 1248 Fifth avenue, skull penetrated by shot, shot in the face, neck, shoulders, arms and breast. Will lose sight of one eye. Dangerously injured. Howard Alexander, 20, 1234 Fourth avenue, back wrenched by Stone, seriously bruised. Charles Root, 25, 1215 Fourth avenue, shot through the neck. Alexander Jefferson, 20, shot through neck. Allen Ritten, shot through the ear, neck and shoulders. Charles Adams, 36, 1204 Fourth avenue, injured on head. Willis Harig, 18, 1243 Fourth avenue, slightly injured on the head. Clarence Conklin, 20, wounds in head and shoulders. Harkins and his companion, Harry Douglas, 21, were arrested by a squad of police who pursued the two men to their homes. Harkins hid in the cellar where he was found by policemen. His father, police say, resisted them when they entered the house. Harkins was charged with shooting to kill, and Douglas with carrying concealed weapons.

Moleskin Warriors Will Clash Today

New York, Sept. 25.—Most of the leading football teams of the east open the season today with games with eleven from the colleges of lesser importance in the athletic world. Harvard, Yale, Princeton and Pennsylvania are among the leading teams which tested their football material for the 1915 season today. The Army-Navy and Cornell teams were not included in today's schedule. The Harvard team will play Colby at Cambridge. The Crimson squad is said to contain material for a strong eleven and is expected to experience no great difficulty with the team from Maine, Yale, which will play the University of Maine at New Haven is expected to give an indication of its development of the passing game with which it achieved success last season. Interest centered upon the Princeton-Georgetown game at Princeton, owing to reports from the south that Georgetown has a fast heavy eleven which may give a good account of itself. It was thought likely that Pennsylvania would find the University of Virginia a strong opponent in their opening game at Philadelphia.

Cardinal Injured By Fall To Floor

Rome, Sept. 24. (Via Paris)—Cardinal Jerome Mary Gotti, prefect of propaganda, fainted and fell in his office today, striking his head violently on the floor, says the Idea Nazionale. He suffered a slight concussion of the brain and his condition is considered grave because of his great age—81 years. Cardinal Gotti was appointed to the Cardinalate in 1908. The office he holds is one of the most influential in the Catholic church. All strictly missionary lands, such as some parts of America and Africa, are under the propaganda. Cardinal Gotti was one of those mentioned as a possible successor to Pope Pius X.

Establish Hospitals For Cholera Patients

Shanghai, Sept. 25.—Two hospitals for cholera patients have been established by the Red Cross Society of China in Shanghai to take care of the large number of Chinese affected by cholera. Both hospitals are under the charge of Dr. Hans Thue. Dr. Shen Tuchen, one of the first Chinese graduates from an American medical school, has been appointed director of one of the hospitals and the other is also in charge of a native doctor. Funds for the maintenance of the hospitals have been subscribed by Chinese through the local Red Cross Society.

Fading Braves Have Lost Their Popularity

PROBABLY no club in the history of baseball lost its popularity as soon as did the Boston Braves. Last summer when Geo. Stallings took them on their memorable march right through the National league, from cellar to garret, the Braves became the pets of the baseball fans, and when they completed their great work by taking the world's series in straight heats they were the idols of the National pastime.

It was natural that a fan who had long been the goat of the game should become popular by showing fight and getting into the very center of the spotlight, and it was likewise natural to assume that this popularity would stick for some time. However, such has not been the case and the Braves are the great big bulk of fan-club members who are not hanging around on bushes, and Stallings is pursuing the best course, that of retaining his manager and trying to gather some ball players to help him win.

Larry McLean, the large and eccentric catcher canned from the Giants not long ago, is now managing an independent baseball team. A strong love of the sort of excitement and exhilaration which is to be had along the gay white way is said to be responsible for Larry's fall from fast company. The organization he now manages is said to be a wild one with makeshift uniforms and no two socks alike in the crowd.

FAMOUS OUTFIELD OF BOSTON RED SOX

Top to Bottom: Lewis, Speaker, Hooper.

One of the features of this season's playing of the Boston Red Sox is the remarkable work of the outfielders, Lewis, Speaker and Hooper. The outer gardeners have been the standbys of the team all year and are still going strong at the end of the season.

Cravath Falls

The fall of Cravath, the heavy hitting outfielder of the Philadelphia Athletics, marked the week's work among the National League batters.

Cravath, hitherto leading run getter of the league, was tied for total runs by Doyle of New York passed for by Williams of the Giants' captain and Hinchman of Pittsburgh, retaining only his home run.

Doyle increased his percentage as leading batsman league with an average of .321. Lombard, Philadelphia, is second with .312. The next eight batters are:

Hinchman, Pittsburgh .310; Daubert, Brooklyn .309; Griffith, Cincinnati .306; Robertson, New York .305; Snyder, St. Louis .303; Merkle, New York .301; Connelly, Boston .299; Lon, St. Louis .291.

Asheville, N. FOHL RETAINMENT IS WISE MOVE

There was hardly anything for President Somers of the Cleveland club to do but retain Lee Fohl as manager of the Indians. In the first place Lee never had a chance to show his worth with the collection he was given this summer, and secondly, there is nothing to be gained by changing leaders every year. Good managers are not hanging around on bushes, and Somers is pursuing the best course, that of retaining his manager and trying to gather some ball players to help him win.

Ironton Is To Play P. H. S. Nov. 13

Portsmouth High School's football schedule has been arranged so a game can be played in Ironton the home of P. H. S. bitterest rival in athletics of all kinds. November 13 was an open date but Ironton has contracted for this and this makes the schedule complete except the Thanksgiving game.

Ironton was to play here November 6 but when Ironton took the November 13 date the schedule was changed, P. H. S. going to Ironton on the 6th and P. H. S. coming here on the 13th. The former schedule gave Portsmouth four games in a row at home, the change leaving three games in a row starting with Ironton on October 16, Jackson on October 23 and Gallipolis on October 30.

The season will open as intended on October 2 next Saturday with P. H. S. playing at Gallipolis. This will be the first time P. H. S. and G. H. S. players have faced each other in battle.

BRAVES AND TIGERS MAY FILL IN AT COMING WORLD'S SERIES

Boston, Sept. 25.—A meeting between the Boston Braves and the Detroit Tigers, respectively pennant contenders in the National and American leagues in the event that neither becomes a participant in the world's series, has been the subject of negotiations between the management of the teams, it became known today. It is proposed to have the teams meet at Braves' field on the days on which the Red Sox and Philadelphia are halting in the latter city.

Should the world's series be decided in straight games, the proposed exhibition series would stop with the second contest.

Cobb Is Swat King

Chicago, Sept. 25.—Ty Cobb is leading the American league in four departments of the game, in batting, base stealing, scoring and in total base hitting.

Averages published today show that the Detroit star has beaten his team Sam Crawford, for the leadership in total base column, and is leading with .281. In base stealing Cobb has established a record for the league. He has stolen 89, one above the record made by Milton of Washington in 1912.

Cobb's batting average of the last week, .371, remains unchanged. Orling of Philadelphia, leads in home runs with 6, while Burge of Detroit and Pounder of Chicago are tied for second with 5 each.

In batting Fournier has jumped from eighth place to tie with his teammate, Eddie Collins. They are hitting at a .322 clip. Following are Speaker, Boston .320; Melman, Philadelphia .319; Jackson, Chicago, .311; Vande, Detroit .308; Crawford, Detroit .301; Kirk, Cleveland .303; Gainer, Boston .297; Strunk, Philadelphia .297.

Ruth Is Leader

The leading pitchers in the American league are:

Ruth, Boston, won 17, lost 6; Foster, Boston 19 and 7; Shore, Boston 13 and 7; Leonard, Boston 14 and 6; Doherty, Detroit 22 and 11; Boland, Detroit 12 and 6; Johnson, Washington 21 and 12; Kowalski, Detroit 22 and 12; Balle, Washington 16 and 9; Scott, Chicago 21 and 12; Ayers, Washington 11 and 8; Fisher, Chicago 22 and 13; Fisher, New York 18 and 11; Doherty, Detroit 17 and 11.

Where are the critics, who said the Cubs would win the pennant. They are probably keeping company with the chaps who picked the Braves to beat the Phillies.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take a glass of Sals if your Back hurts or Bladder bothers—Meat forms uric acid.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The uric gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jaid Sals from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jaid Sals is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

THE CAPITAL CITY.

People who have been in Columbus the past week or so can understand the reason why the new Deshler hotel is being built and why it is an attractive proposition from a financial standpoint. Several nights this week it was impossible to secure a room in any of the hotels and even cots were at a premium. Columbus is getting to be more and more a convention center and a business center for Central and Southern Ohio and with her present facilities in the hotel line, she cannot adequately care for the strangers within her gates.

And in this connection it is interesting to note the gradual drifting of people from this vicinity to Columbus rather than to Cincinnati, when they feel called upon to go outside to do their buying. It used to be that practically all outside trade from Portsmouth went to Cincinnati. Now at least half and probably more than that is going to Columbus and the percentage is increasing each year.

The automobile is perhaps in a measure accountable for this, good roads into Columbus being the rule rather than the exception, as in the case of some of her competitors. Automobile parties from this section invariably strike Columbus either going or coming, have been impressed with her business enterprise in manufacturing and other lines, and when they need things they cannot get at home, they naturally turn to Columbus to see if the want cannot be filled there. In this way our trade relations with the Capital City have grown steadily to the exclusion of Cincinnati which used to get it all.

MRS. BELMONT'S IDEA.

That leaders of the Woman's Suffrage movement have been figuring ahead on concerted political action, once women generally get the right to vote, has often been charged, and as often denied by the astute leaders of the suffragists. Now however, comes Mrs. Belmont, chief propagandist of the cause and boldly declares for independent and concerted action by women. In an address at San Francisco, Mrs. Belmont said:

"The union of this sisterhood of women voters is the power politically of the near future. For twenty centuries you have been led to believe your work was to patch up the evils germinated by man's so-called civilization. It is time for us women to have a civilization of our own."

This doctrine does not appeal to our namesake, of Portsmouth, New Hampshire, which says:

"Is it at all likely that a purely woman-made civilization would be any better than the present male-shift which is so contemptuously referred to as 'man-made'? Certainly it would be superior in some important respects, where man's prejudice or ignorance or neglect has blocked human progress. But when it comes to organizing one sex into a political party whose program is to re-make the world in disregard of the other sex's needs or wishes, not only every sensible man but every sensible woman must see the folly of it. Even if the thing could be done—and of course it can't—it would mean disaster. No sex, not even the feminine, can re-mould the world and perfect human society. It takes both."

A RECONSTRUCTED MAN COSTS $500.

With exhibitions and catalogues of artificial limbs now brought to notice one gets to calculating the cost of a reconstructed man. Seemingly a little more than $500 would suffice. A pair of articulated legs cost about $150, and a pair of arms about $100. Ears, with drums, etc., cost $75 each, eyes $30 a pair, and so on. Without heart and brain a man is worth about $500. With them—the price might change.—London Chronicle.

Henry Walton looms up as the new Republican boss of the colored people. He claims to carry the colored vote in his pocket and he speaks for them when there is any patronage to bestow. Thus Hen named Price and Minor for the court house janitorships, after deciding that he did not want one of the jobs himself and the commissioners ratified the selections. And now Henry sits back and lords it over the other fellows who imagined that they were some pumpkins in the politician line.

Contractor Simpson is to the front with a request that the Hill road be raised a few feet. We believe in that. But in the meantime would it not be a little better if Contractor Simpson would make some progress towards finishing the road to the height his present contract calls for. We might all be "in some lone-some graveyard" as they say in the old camp meeting song, before Simpson would get the road done as asked for in the proposed change, judging by the way he has been working.

West Union has wakened up. She has decided that her streets need improving and a mass meeting of volunteer workers will take place next week with the idea of repairing and improving all the streets in the town. Two days will be devoted to the work and it is hoped to have each street in fine condition at the conclusion of the work.

Terre Haute has one mayor in the federal penitentiary and now it is seeking to remove another on the ground that he is a crank and guilty of immoral conduct. Fine brands of politics they have over there.

SOME DOPE ON "BILLS"!

OPPOSES POLITICAL CONTROL.

S. G. McClure, editor of the Youngstown Telegram, and Republican State Central Committeeman, who loyally supported Willis for election and through the early stages of his administration, has invidious comparison of Willis with Patterson and Harmon and Cox, in his mind and has a hard time keeping it from his words. A strict partisan of no mean ability, this from him is indicative.

"Recent movements of Governor Willis in shifting the membership of the state board of administration are being interpreted as an indication of his intention to change the management of the state institutions. We do not believe it is the governor's purpose to do this, nor do we believe he intends to subordinate the state institutions to party politics."

But that he really does so believe is indicated when the editorial continues:

"Any changes in institution management are likely to be regarded as wholly political in their nature and the turning over of the care of the thousands of wards of the state to politicians is not wanted by Ohio people. It will be resented by them. By a sort of tacit consent state houses and charitable and correctional institutions have been free from the evil of being pawns in the political game. They have been infinitely better off because of this. The heads of these institutions have, in general, reciprocated. Few of them have political strength or ambitions and rarely has a superintendent or wardenship been used as a egg in the machine of any party or office holder. The two institutions with which northeastern Ohio is most familiar bear out this claim. Dr. H. C. Eymann, superintendent of the Massillon asylum, is credited with being a Democrat. More than this, however, he is an alienist of unquestioned merit who has governed his charge without the slightest regard to politics. Superintendent James A. Leonard, of the Mansfield Reformatory, is a Republican, but under three Democratic governors any suggestion that he be replaced by a mere job-seeker was never offered and even if made would not have been entertained by Governors Patterson, Harmon or Cox.

"The care of the insane, of infirm, of those who have violated the laws of orphans and aged soldiers is a duty in which there should be no suggestion of politics. We believe Governor Willis will show that instead of harboring the intention credited to him he is willing to follow the commendable example of a long list of his Republican and Democratic predecessors."

This editorial is based on the recent appointment of one Philbrick, a so-called Glue Democrat, as a member of the state board of administration.

Somebody happily suggests that it is about time for everybody in this country to cease thinking of the European belligerents and to think of ourselves—to be, first, last and all the time, pro-American. New York, Sept. 25.—Not a Sun headline: "Mrs. Russell Sage many years ago when low-necked (celebrates 87th Birthday Quietly)." Park Row is also ducking a chortle or so at the way the Evening World threw a javelin into the quivering flesh of Editor Arthur Brisbane, the $50,000-a-year, heart editor. The other day Mr. Brisbane in one of his ringing editorials called his readers' attention to the fact that the editor of the Journal was paid the highest salary in town and that some of the city staffs did not receive this total salary.

Mr. Brisbane may or may not have written the editorial, but the next day the Evening World replied: "The editor of the Evening Journal boasts that he gets more salary than the president of the United States, and more than any other evening paper pays its entire staff of editors. But he has to endure the unspeakable degradation of earning it!"

ALLEGED NEGRO CONFESSED IN THE DYNAMITE MURDER CASE

Officials Differ About Course That Will Be Pursued

Albert Marshall, negro suspect in the dynamite case near Scitoville on Saturday evening, Aug. 21st, confessed three weeks ago, to complicity in the horrible crime which sent five negroes into eternity and maimed six others, according to prosecuting Attorney Micklethwait Saturday morning.

His alleged confession, according to Mr. Micklethwait, will be of little value to the state in securing convictions, because he says Judge Thomas refused to allow Marshall to enter a plea of guilty in common pleas court Friday afternoon. The prosecutor claims that Marshall was ready to plead guilty and throw himself on the mercy of the court.

Marshall's alleged confession implicated two other negroes, John Henry Smith, now in the county jail, and Henry Barker, who is at large. In it, he accused Smith of placing the fuse that set off the dynamite and wrecked the frameshack at Camp Perkins occupied by fourteen negroes. Barker is charged with lighting the fuse.

Smith, in a cell at the county jail, stamps Marshall's confession as false and denies all connection with the crime.

In discussing the matter Saturday morning, prosecuting Attorney Micklethwait said:

"Marshall confessed to Sheriff Smith and myself three weeks ago that John Henry Smith, Henry Barker and himself, planned the crime, and that he handed the match to Barker, who lighted the fuse. He was ready to enter a plea of guilty when taken before Judge Thomas, Friday afternoon, but the court appointed two attorneys to defend him and gave him until Monday morning to enter his plea.

"If his counsel advise him to enter a plea of not guilty his lips will be sealed and we will be unable to convict John Henry Smith who will have to be turned loose. The only evidence we have against Smith is Marshall's confession."

Judge Thomas, when asked about the case Saturday morning, said: "The laws of the state guarantee to every man the right to be represented by counsel, and that right was not denied Marshall, who was not allowed to enter a plea until he had been given a fair chance, guaranteed him by the constitution of the state. Marshall was treated just the same as every other man will be treated who is brought into this court. Attorneys Sheppard and Crawford were appointed to defend him, and he was given until Monday morning in which to enter his plea.

Bridge Material On The Ground

The Ohio Valley Traction line is ready to put in the bridge, or culvert, across Storms Creek, at Goosepoint, near the west end of Fifth street. The material for its construction is already being placed on the ground.

VON PAPEN DECLARES LETTER WAS TO WIFE

San Francisco, Sept. 25.—Captain Franz Von Papen, military attaché of the German embassy in Washington, and Prince Von Hatzfeldt, who are visiting this city, will leave next Tuesday for Mexico, it was announced today. Both men maintain silence as to their exact destination and the object of their visit to the southern republic.

Captain Von Papen denied today that the expression "idiotic Yankees" contained in the letter entrusted to J. P. J. Archibald, and intercepted by the British authorities, was intended to apply to the American people.

"The much discussed letter was to my wife," he said. "In passing I might say that publishing a man's letter to his wife is deemed bad form. When the British authorities at Falmouth found these letters on Mr. Archibald published only an excerpt of my letter, thus changing its meaning entirely. My wife or any one else reading the letter from start to finish would have gathered that the expression 'idiotic Yankees' referred to the publishers of a New York newspaper."

"The newspaper had been calling us conspirators and other objectionable epithets. It grew especially vehement after the portfolio containing certain of our private papers had been stolen from one of our men on the train."

PEKING STIRRED BY GRAFTING CHARGES

Peking, Sept. 25.—Surprise has been caused in Peking by the appearance of a presidential order making wholesale charges of grafting and inefficiency in the management of the railway from Peking to Kailash, a line that has been the pride of the Chinese people ever since it was built in 1900, and which from the first days of its operation has been remarkably profitable. The road was constructed under the direction of Chinese engineers and has been operated entirely by Chinese.

According to the report of the Minister of Communications, there have been gross irregularities in the purchase of coal for the railroad in the sale of passenger tickets, and in the extortion of private and illegal profits from merchants by railway employees.

President Yuan Shih-kai's order, based on the report of the Minister of Communications, says: "It is impossible to conceal the fact that in the administration of the said railway discipline has been set at naught. The new director, Liu Shih-shun, of this railway, is hereby ordered to effect a fundamental reform in the administration of the said railway so that a clean atmosphere may be created. He shall perform his work fearlessly and energetically, and he shall bear all responsibilities of his task."

"Kuan Mien-chin, the former director of the railway, has been in the railway service for many years. Yet he has passively allowed the staff to commit irregularities and let the merchants cheat the government without taking any vigorous measures to remedy the corrupt conditions. There is no excuse for his fault in this respect, but as he has already been dismissed from office, he is leniently dealt with and no more is to be said about him. The recommendations of the ministry regarding the dismissal or degradation of the various members of the staff are approved. Some of them will be closely watched."

President Yuan Shih-kai completes his order with a plea for honesty on the part of railway employees that the government treasury, in a time of financial stringency, may have the full benefit of railway earnings. "While it is desirable to select capable, technical men," he says, "it is also necessary to secure men of pure and high morality."

Believe Third Member Of Gang Is Caught In Arrest Of Hicks

The police believe that in Jas. Hicks, aged 15 years, of 1223 Fifth street, whom Officer Bob Lauterbach arrested Friday night, they have a youthful confederate of George Raymer and Melvin Jenkins, the most notorious petty thieves in the city.

Lauterbach encountered young Hicks in the East End carrying a gunny sack filled with what he claimed was rags but when examined was found to contain a couple of good blankets, girls' dresses of good material, men and boys' underwear and other articles that appeared to have formed a big family washing, just stripped from some clothes line.

The youth claimed the outfit had been given to him by his cousin, Russell Hicks, of New Eighth street, saying that Russell had the sack in his barn. He said Russell gave the supply to him and he expected to sell it. Asked why he did not make the transfer during the day time instead of night he claimed he was unable to leave home because his grandfather was very ill.

When closely questioned the boys made some conflicting statements and police later learned from the cousin that he had not given the clothes to the boy as claimed by him. The boy, because of his youthful age, was permitted to go home for the balance of the night with orders to appear in court Saturday morning.

Ed McKinley, a well-known Portsmouth young man and former deputy marshal of New Boston, was waylaid and badly beaten up by a trio from that village, while on his way home Friday night, according to a story told today by McKinley.

McKinley had been at New Boston, and while there met Matt Dixon and C. E. ("Pete") Wintersole, two bartenders employed at Hans & York's saloon, and became involved in an argument with them, he said. The argument took place at another saloon, but nothing serious came of it at the time, and the incident was considered dropped, when McKinley boarded a street car for home. He claims that he was unaware that two other men and a companion, whom he did not know, were on the same car. Just as he prepared to alight from the car at Ninth and Gay streets he was shoved off the platform and the three attacked him, he says. He tried to get away from them and started through Tracy park on the way to his home on Tenth street near Chillicothe street, but they sprang upon him again, he says, knocking him down and beating him unmercifully. While lying prostrate on the ground they also said to have kicked and trampled him.

Pedestrians assisted him to his home and Dr. J. E. Rogers was called to attend him. His face and head were a mass of cuts and bruises. There was a bad cut over the eye, another on the lip, one on the tongue and several on the head. He also complained of severe pains in the side, and it was first thought that several of his ribs were broken. One of the blows was directly over a silver plate that he has had in his head ever since meeting with a bad accident some years ago, and this was causing him particular pain. He was still bedfast and suffering greatly Saturday morning.

McKinley's assailants made a safe getaway, and although police scoured the city they were unable to locate them. The New Boston authorities were notified that warrants were out for their arrest. They were located by telephone Saturday morning and ordered into police court, but failed to appear when court convened and officers were dispatched to New Boston to bring them in.

Dixon created a disturbance at a North Chillicothe street saloon a few weeks ago and was taken into custody by Officer Frank Millm, but as the saloon man did not care to prosecute him, was permitted to go his way.

When Dixon and Wintersole arrived at headquarters they were put under bonds of $50 each for their appearance in court Monday morning. Charges were preferred against them by Harry Cooper, who said McKinley's wife is his cousin.

TRANSPORTING AMMUNITION FOR TURK FIGHTERS IN GALLIOLI

Camel caravan taking rifles and ammunition to Turk trenches. This is a typical scene in Turkey. Camels are still used for packing purposes as they were in the days when Mohammed was young, although now the most modern of wars is being fought. The Turks are using camel caravans extensively for the transport of war material to the trenches in Gallipoli and other parts of the Ottoman empire.

HEAD OF EVERY COMMITTEE IN LOWER HOUSE OF CONGRESS AT NEXT SESSION TO COME FROM SOUTH; NORTHERNERS COMPLAIN

The slate of committee chairmanships of the house of representatives, as tentatively made up, gives everything to the south, and leaves the north, the middle west and the Pacific coast states absolutely without representation. According to this slate, the following men among other Southerners will hold important committee chairmanships: Carter Glass of Virginia, banking and currency; J. T. Lloyd of Missouri, accounts; Henry D. Flood of Virginia, foreign affairs; J. L. Burnett of Alabama, immigration and naturalization; F. Y. Webb of North Carolina, judiciary; James Hay of Virginia, military affairs; Claude Kitchin of North Carolina, ways and means; W. C. Adamson of Georgia, interstate and foreign commerce. Some dissatisfaction with this slate is being heard in the north and west.
